Legislature Probe Of Camallonga Sought By Klein, Debrosky

KINGSTON
Ulster County Legislators Louis M. Klein (D-Dist. 6) and Glenn A. Debrosky (R-Dist. 6), claiming that the Ulster County District Attorney's probe into alleged misconduct in the county highway department justifies further inquiries, have proposed that a special committee of the Legislature be directed to conduct its own investigation.

Klein and Debrosky will make that proposal in the form of a resolution at the August 14 meeting of the Ulster County Legislature.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt announced at a press conference Monday that his investigation into alleged improper activities on the part of highway superintendent Joe Camallonga uncovered "no evidence of criminal wrongdoing." But Vogt added that the probe revealed several instances where Camallonga displayed "poor judgment."

"This resolution is more called for than ever," said Klein, "the district attorney said he found instances where Camallonga used poor judgment. An investigation into these actions certainly falls within the domain of the Legislature."

The resolution that will be submitted by Klein and Debrosky proposes that the same committee which investigated apparent irregularities in the Ulster County Sheriff's Department in 1974 be placed in charge of the highway department investigation. Klein is a member of that committee (whose authority has never been withdrawn or terminated), along with Legislature chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8), Gerald P. Gorman (D-City), Ernest J. Gardner (R-Dist. 5) and Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2).

The resolution drafted by Klein and Debrosky states, in part, "... an investigation by the Ulster County District Attorney's Office, while failing to uncover any criminal activities associated with such charges and allegations, did uncover what it described as the exercise of very poor judgment, (by Camallonga) which in its opinion could properly expose Mr. Camallonga to criticism, and, whereas, it has become incumbent upon the Ulster County Legislature to investigate these charges and allegations so as to determine what, if any, action, must be taken to safeguard and protect county-owned property and county employees..."

Debrosky said there are several specific areas which he believes the committee should investigate, including a report that the highway department traded in a diesel shovel (appraised at $14,400) for $2,600. The equipment was later resold, said Debrosky, for $12,000.

There was also an instance, said Debrosky, where the county traded in a flat-bed truck, and then immediately rented the same truck from the person it was sold to.

Regarding Vogt's investigation into a brick building that was demolished by a private contractor, with some of the labor, according to the DA, apparently performed by county employees on county time, Debrosky said, "The district attorney said there was no criminal wrongdoing here, that it was a minor incident. I don't consider it to be a minor incident. I think it's major and steps should be taken to make sure that similar occurrences don't happen again."

President's Veto of Health Bill Crushed by Congressional Override

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The "veto-proof" Congress that President Ford warned against last year is still non-existent, despite Tuesday's crushing House override vote on a $2 billion health services authorization.

The 384-to-43 vote was 99 more than the two-thirds needed for the first successful override by the House in five attempts this year. The Senate's 67-to-15 vote on Saturday was 12 more than needed. This meant a number of Republicans were needed to reject the veto, and there were 107 who defected in the House.

But it will be the last override for some time, according to most observers. At least until another gut issue like health comes along.

Ford's veto of a $7.9-billion aid to education bill, about the same time as the health services rejection, is expected to be upheld in the House. The ink was hardly dry on the health veto when the Senate voted. But the education veto won't come up until Sept. 9 and then there may not even be an override vote.

Ford has vetoed 36 bills since taking office Aug. 9, 1974. Eleven were pocket vetoes, cast while Congress was adjourned. There were over-ride attempts on 13 of the remaining 25, with five being successful. Four of those five came last year before Democrats gained 290 House seats — an absolute two-thirds of the 435 membership — in the new Congress born this January.

The two-year health services bill, authorizing twice the funds budgeted by the administration, had so much going for it that it is assumed Ford knew he would lose his first 1975 veto battle. Its grants to state and local agencies to continue operating mental health programs for the elderly, treatment and eradication programs for communicable diseases and aid to student nurses went into nearly every congressional district in the nation.

said the legislation "was a people's effort," as compared to organized lobbying by such groups as business or labor.

Rep. Samuel Devine, R-Ohio, a GOP backer of the veto, conceded defeat in advance of the vote, saying: "I got the same flood of calls that you all got from nurses and doctors."

The setback is not expected to deter Ford's record veto-casting pace, backing up his warning to Congress that he would hold the line on spending. He is expected to be sustained.

In other action, the Senate, on a 58-to-29 vote, has approved annual cost-of-living pay raises for members of Congress, the vice president, federal judges and other top government employees now earning $36,000 or more.

The measure, which was sent to the House, survived a spate of amendments offered Tuesday night to limit or kill the first increases for high-level federal workers since 1969.

President Ford strongly urged passage of the bill in a letter to Nelson Rockefeller, chairman of the President's Panel on Federal Compensation who now earns $62,500 a year as the nation's No. 2 officeholder.

Ford called the measure a "vital first step" to getting and keeping top people in the federal government. He said dozens of high government jobs are unfilled "simply because many of the executives we want in federal service cannot, in fairness, accept the huge cut in compensation that would be involved."

Under the bill, all 535 members of Congress, every federal judge, about 10,000 super-grade executive branch officials, 600 top military officers and the vice president would get the same percentage cost-of-living increase effective Oct. 1 as those provided to help Civil Service employees keep pace with the rate of inflation.

SCHERMERHORN

By Hugh Reynolds

NEWBURGH
Push has apparently come to shove in the four-year school busing controversy in Newburgh and State Senator Richard E. Schermerhorn (R-40th) has had it.

"I'd tell him what to do with this busing thing," Schermerhorn angrily declared in reference to State Education Commissioner Ewald Nyquist's ordering the Newburgh Board of Education to appear at a departmental hearing on Aug. 21 to detail how it will integrate its predominantly black Broadway School with outlying mostly white school districts.

"The Civil Rights Act of 1964, the U.S. Constitution, the State Constitution and the State Civil Rights Acts absolutely prohibit forced busing," Schermerhorn insisted. "I've sent him copies but I doubt it will do any good."

The senator characterized the education commissioner as "a little Hitler. No, make that a big Hitler. He's acting just like Hitler did, taking away the rights of parents and then taking over the minds of their children."

Schermerhorn contends forced busing for the purpose of creating racial balance is "un-constitutional" despite the fact it's been carried out in many sections of the country and upheld by the courts. "It hasn't gotten to the Supreme Court," he said. "They'll knock it down. It's a violation of the Constitution wherever it occurs."

Schermerhorn said he's been in telephone contact with the state board of regents and says that they're dead set against it.

He says that the Newburgh School Board will attend the hearing scheduled by Nyquist for Aug. 21 but under protest. "They (the school board) told me they'd have to be fired by Nyquist before they'd do it," Schermerhorn said.

The Newburgh School District, like Kingston's is consolidated, servicing a large suburban area in addition to the central city. Newburgh, unlike Kingston, has a large black population, ranging to about 40 percent as opposed to Kingston's eight percent.

Schermerhorn says the city schools (those schools within the city of Newburgh) are "totally balanced" (racially). The plan is to bus whites to the city schools and blacks to the suburban schools within the district.

Nyquist's hearing is designed to set up a grievance procedure for parents who oppose cross-busing of their children. The integration plan would not go into effect until the school year starting in September of 1976.

Ford and Brezhnev Make Nuclear Headway

HELSINKI (UPI) — President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev made "constructive" headway toward nuclear arms control today at a private summit that went so well it briefly delayed the main 35-nation conference.

Obviously pleased with their talks, Ford and Brezhnev conferred mainly on problems affecting the prospective new U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation pact for two hours and 10 minutes — keeping 33 other national leaders waiting 10 minutes to open formally the European security summit.

Brezhnev arrived at the white marble Finlandia Hall conference site in time to kiss Poland's Edward Gierk on both cheeks.

But Ford was the last delegation chief to arrive, 10 minutes late. He took his front row seat alongside Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who spent the delay drumming his fingers upon a desk in apparent impatience. Finland's President Urho Kekkonen then convoked the historic summit conference.

Kekkonen hailed the conference as "a day of joy and hope for Europe" during the 25-minute convocation ceremony. Ford then lunched with the prime minister of Greece and attended for a four-hour afternoon summit session to hear the speeches of other delegation chiefs.

In the morning, as he and Brezhnev emerged from their U.S. embassy talks, Ford indicated with pleasure they had made progress toward resolving some of the technical snags in the phase-two SALT agreement they hope to sign in Washington this October.

He described the talks as "very constructive, very friendly, very businesslike."

Good Progress In NYC Talks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Negotiations between municipal unions and officials aimed at shoring up the city's fiscal image recessed early today with good progress reported by union leader Victor Gotbaum.

Gotbaum, head of the largest city employee union, emerged from the marathon talks at 5 a.m. to make the progress report.

He said, however, that some knotty problems remain and that the talks would resume later this week, they said.

See Editorial Page 6

Two hours earlier, Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers, left the talks, saying he had been asked to do so by Gotbaum and Deputy Mayor James Cavanagh because he could not go along with concessions other unions apparently were willing to make.

Other union leaders remained at the talks, which continued past a midnight deadline set by Mayor Abraham Beame.

Gotbaum asserted there was no acrimony in Shanker's leaving, saying the teachers' union leader had a unique problem since he was opening contract talks now and Board of Education members were not present at the current negotiations.

Asked whether the bankers have expressed willingness to make concessions, Gotbaum said, "Much to my delight and surprise, the bankers, too, have been very cooperative" but he supplied no details.

Kenneth McFeeley, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said, "Progress is being made," but he added, "There are still a lot of areas that are wide open."

Asked whether "Big MAC" would go ahead with its announced intention of setting today as the deadline for a decision on whether to market a new $1 billion bond issue Aug. 7, Felix Rohatyn, head of "Big MAC's" finance committee, said, "I think we will make that decision today."

Cavanagh refused to say whether Beame — who had set a midnight deadline for an agreement — would stick by his previous intention to impose an economy plan today. He said he would talk to the mayor later in the day.

New York City is the richest in the world but its current financial crisis has driven it to the brink of insolvency. Unless there is some sort of agreement by Aug. 22, the city will default on $791 million in short-term notes, most of them held by banks.

The city made several proposals, but many of them cause serious problems.

There was a cutback in the number of sanitationmen. Now garbage is piling up on city streets, and big rats from the city's waterways are attacking the garbage.

The city proposed a wage freeze for all union members. Labor leaders rejected them and threatened to strike if Mayor Abraham Beame tried to impose a wage freeze anyway.

Beame had threatened to do just that unless the union members agreed by midnight Tuesday night. The unions and city officials bargained deep into the night. The midnight deadline passed without any public announcement.

The city also announced it would raise subway and bus fares from its current 35 cents to 45 or 50 cents. Environmentalists said the increased fares would only drive more people into cars — and further deteriorate the city's air quality, in violation of federal standards. A federal court ordered a hearing on the fares last Tuesday.

The fare for the Staten Island ferry has been increased from a nickel to a 25 cents.

Since the crisis began a year ago, the public has been barraged with figures and revised figures, conflicting projections and rapid reversals of the city's fortunes.

Ulster Board Slates Hearing On Development

TOWN OF ULSTER
The Ulster Town Board will hold an informational meeting Thursday night to review and explain a developer's request to construct a townhouse development, rather than a condominium, on the former Chambers Property off VanKeuren Highway.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall on Route 9W.

Phillip Sages, the developer, has already received approval from the town board to embark on the condominium project, and had obtained a building permit. According to town officials, however, Sages now desires to erect a townhouse complex at the site, and requires permission to cluster the units and a waiver of setback requirements.

The proposed townhouse plan will feature the same number of units (125) as the already approved condominium complex, but each dwelling will be erected on a separate parcel and will be individually owned, with maintenance and upkeep the responsibility of the owner of the townhouse unit.

The town board conducted a public hearing on the request on July 10, but no action was taken because of the small number of persons who attended. Town officials are hoping for a larger turnout on Thursday, so that residents will know the precise ramifications of the proposed change.

The Chambers Property is located between VanKeuren Highway and Lawrenceville Street, with the entrance on VanKeuren Highway. It is situated generally behind the Chambers School.

Budget Session Planned

KYSERIKE
A five point referendum for residents of the Rondout Valley Central School district will be held Aug. 13.

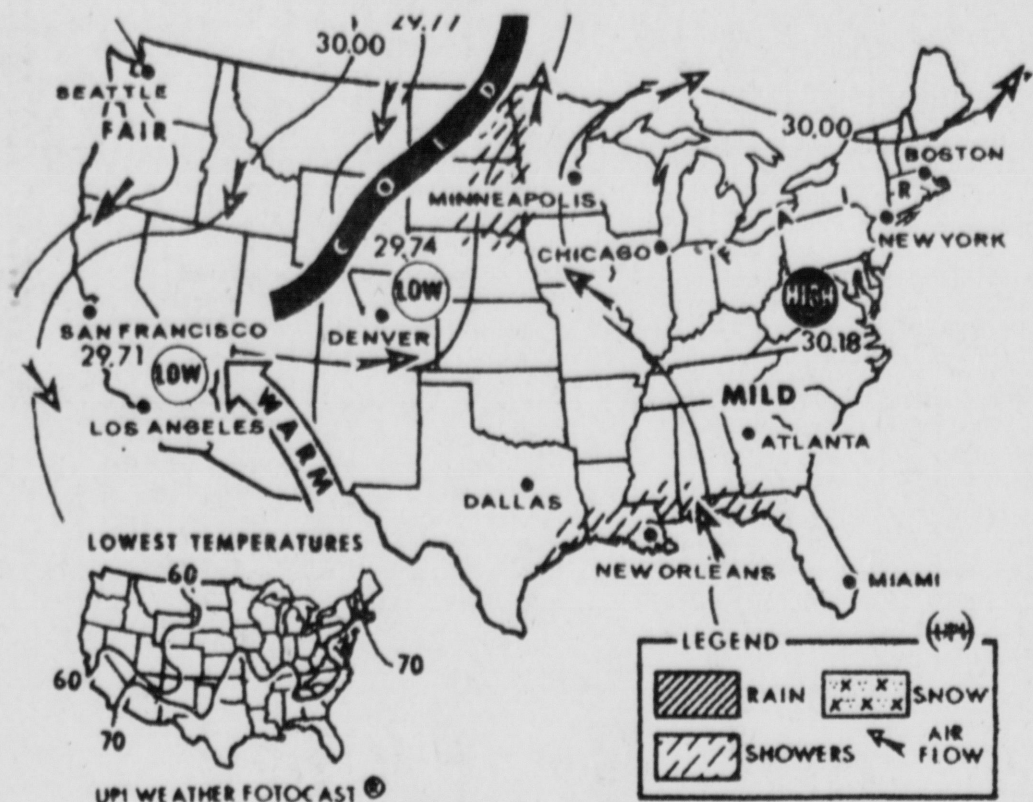

The board of education July 8 adopted a contingency budget of $6,592,852 for the 1975-76 school year, following in the wake of two consecutive budget defeats by voters.

One referendum item is full transportation service, to cost $60,150 over the austerity limit. This would allow busing as in the past. The austerity budget would force students in grades K-8 to walk up to two miles to school or a main bus route and high school students three miles. It was estimated by school officials that about two-thirds of the student body would be affected.

The estimated cost of maintaining sports and music programs is $76,770.

Previously unregistered residents who wish to vote on the five propositions may register through Aug. 5 at either the Kerhonkson or Marletown Elementary Schools weekdays, or Saturday, Aug. 2, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

For Period Ending 7 a.m., EST Thursday

Tonight will find thunderstorms over the eastern portions of the Dakotas and the eastern Gulf coastal area. Mostly fair skies is expected elsewhere. # Street Violence Continues in Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — It looked like a battlefield. The streets of a west side neighborhood were scarred by fire and strewn with rubble today — the legacy of a second straight night of violence sparked by the fatal shooting of a black teen-ager by a white tavern owner.

Hundreds of riot-ready police, many called in from vacations and days off, used tear gas and nightsticks to disperse jeering, chanting crowds in some streets Tuesday night.

Police Chief Philip Tannian said roving gangs — composed mainly of young blacks — set three major fires in business places, smashed scores of windows and set fire to several cars. Altogether, he said, 13 stores were damaged.

The disturbances were described as a "mild echo" of the 1967 riots that left 43 dead, 5,000 homeless and caused $250 million in damage — the worst race riots in modern American history.

The troubles started Monday night when a white tavern owner, Andrew Chinarian, 39, said he fired at a youth advancing towards him in the tavern parking lot with an object in his hand. The object, police said, was a screwdriver. The victim was identified as Obie Wynn, 18, a black.

Chinarian was charged with second-degree murder, arraigned and freed on $500 bond. The handling of the case touched off renewed anger in the neighborhood and led to Tuesday night's disorders. Police re-arrested Chinarian and jailed him for his own protection.

The trouble area is predominantly black, lower middle class and covers about 50 blocks about seven miles from city hall.

Seven persons were arrested Tuesday night on charges of inciting to riot, bringing the two-day arrest total to 78.

There were no official reports of injuries in the second night's disorder. Tannian said a youth was shot and killed in the trouble area but that his death was not related to the disturbances.

Monday night, at least 10 persons were injured, including one policeman and one fireman.

A band of blacks Tuesday night dragged a 54-year old white man, Marion A. Pysko, from his car and beat him with fists and a brick. He was listed in critical condition today. A 19-year black youth was arrested in connection with the attack.

The Tuesday disturbances came despite a show of police strength that included hundreds of police in full riot gear deployed at points of likely trouble and dozens of squad cars parked single file in the middle of barricaded streets.

Witnesses said several policemen were hit by bottles hurled from rooftops and windows and by members of a crowd lining one side of a street about one-half block from the tavern where the Monday shooting occurred.

Corn Farmers Still Hoping

By UPI

Midwest farmers watched the skies for signs of needed rain, but all that hung above them was a blazing sun. It's been that way for days.

Iowa's corn crop once was shaping up into record proportions. Now it crackled in the wind, baked by long, hot days without rain — and now farmers hoped the rains would come and give them simply a respectable crop. The U.S. Department of Agriculture, however, insisted it wasn't all that bad.

Iowa Agriculture Secretary Robert Lounsbury said the dry spell probably has cut corn yields by 20 bushels per acre and could chop 50 bushels off the per-acre yields if rain is not forthcoming.

But USDA Director of Economics Don Paarlberg said he does not think drought has seriously cut into the nation's crop and still believes the 1975 harvest will be a record. He said reports of serious threats to the crop are premature.

The USDA in Washington termed corn belt crop prospects better than normal but cautioned that "additional moisture is needed to maintain rapid development."

Agricultural officials in several Midwest and Plains states said crops were hurting from searing heat and lack of rain — six weeks without rain in parts of Kansas.

Hot, dry weather seared the upper Midwest from the Dakotas to Minnesota, and the mercury climbed to 106 at Phillip, S.D., Tuesday.

The South Dakota crop reporting service said corn and soybean growth was at a standstill in many areas and corn leaves were curling and stalks "firing," or turning brown.

Nebraska livestock growers were warned to keep close watch on their stock in the hot, humid weather.

A spokesman for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Kansas said light rains Monday were "too spotty to be of any help" and warned there would be some crop loss unless rains falls before next week.

Missouri agriculture experts say the corn crop in the southern three quarters of that state "has been cut 10 to 20 per cent from its potential for a full yield."

In Texas, thunderstorms pounded the north central portion of the state and high winds — possibly a tornado — tore the roof off one house and damaged three others in a rural area near Lewisville, Tex. No injuries were reported.

Judge Dismisses Defense Lawyer

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Attorneys for Joan Little, a black woman charged with murdering a white jailer she claims tried to rape her, say their case has been hurt by Superior Court Judge Hamilton Hobgood's dismissal of Morris Dees from the defense team.

Hobgood threw Dees, son of a sharecropper and now a self-made millionaire, out of court Tuesday because Dees allegedly tried to make a witness change her testimony.

"I will give you five minutes to get out of the courtroom," Hobgood told Dees.

The judge refused defense motions for a hearing on the matter and to allow the appointment of another attorney to replace Dees.

"It'll really hurt Joan's case," said chief defense attorney Jerry Paul.

In a run-in with the judge last week, the 38-year-old Dees said Hobgood was not allowing questioning by defense attorneys that he had allowed from the prosecution.

"If you do it once more," warned the judge, "you'll be out of the case."

A team of seven lawyers had been working to get Miss Little acquitted of the first-degree murder charges.

Planned For Recreation Center

Hurley Town Board Is Given Oehler Property Inventory

WEST HURLEY
The Hurley Town Board Monday night received a detailed inventory of property it hopes to purchase for a town recreation center.

William Oehler, owner of Oehler's Mountain Lodge, submitted an inventory of the facilities available, including a swimming pool and a soccer field, along with a detailed map of the property that would be involved in the sale. Also included was a termination agreement for the septic system installed under the soccer field and Oehler's price, $97,500.

The board will ask the Ulster County Soil Conservation Service to review the property and make recommendations for its use. The board will set up a special meeting after their report is received.

The board had to defer action on a contract with the SPCA to handle animals taken into custody under the town's new dog control ordinance. Town Attorney Robert MacKinnon, who drew up the contract, was not at the meeting.

The town received notice from the State Board of Equalization that the town's equalization rate would be 13.81 for the coming year, down just a fraction from this year's 14. The rate is one of four factors determining the rate per thousand, along with the budget total, total assessed valuation and the amount of state aid received, which affects the amount to be made up by local taxes.

In other action, the board: • Petitioned the Department of Transportation to investigate the possibility of a sign at the intersection of Route 375 with Holly Hills Drive, where traffic to a new church is causing problems.

• Named Supervisor Raymond "Jake" Crosswell and Deputy Supervisor George Schroeder to be budget directors for 1975-76.

• Saw an exhibition by Mrs.

Dairy Problems Hearing Slated

WASHINGTON, D.C.
Congressman Matthew F. McHugh (D-27th) announced that members of the House Agriculture Committee will hold a field hearing this fall in Binghamton to take testimony on the problems of New York State dairy farmers.

The day-long hearing, one of a dozen scheduled nationwide by the Dairy and Poultry subcommittee, will be held Saturday, Sept. 20, at the Federal Building in Binghamton.

The hearings will lay the basis for farm legislation which could be brought to the House floor late this year, McHugh said.

"We want to explore the whole range of problems facing our dairy farmers. For example, one of the things we will be looking at is the relation between production costs and dairy prices," he said.

McHugh said the subcommittee is also interested in the impact of retail dairy prices and programs on consumers. Consumer groups will be invited to participate, he said. "It is important that we get both sides of the story. While dairymen are facing a price squeeze, consumers are also confronted with rising prices. I believe that we should be searching for areas of common interest between consumers and farmers and that federal programs should reflect a fair balance between both groups."

McHugh, a first term member of the Agriculture Committee, said he will be contacting individual farmers, cooperatives, farm organizations and consumers and others who may be interested in testifying. Representatives from state government and the State School of Agriculture at Cornell are expected to participate, he said.

McHugh urged that anyone wishing to take part in the hearings contact his Washington office before Sept. 5. The address is Room 1204, Longworth Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

He stressed that the hearings will be open to the public and that anyone in the state having an interest in the dairy industry is encouraged to attend.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

July, 1775:

With British agents such as Guy Johnson and Dr. John Connelly active among the tribes, Congress appoints commissioners for the northern, middle, and southern Indian districts. Congress also arms the commissioners with gifts for the Indians and with messages such as the one that the Rev. Samuel Kirkland—who has lived among the Indians as a missionary—takes to the Six Nations. In part, that message reads: "[The British] now tell us they will slip their hand into our pocket without asking, as though it were their own; and at their pleasure they will take from us our charters or written civil constitution, which we love as our lives—also our plantations, our houses, and goods whenever they please, without asking our leave." The counselors' entreaties that the Indians not actively support the British meet with a large measure of success.

Inflexible

As of this writing, the intransigence of New York City's labor leaders in refusing to sit still for a badly needed wage freeze is another example of the myopia afflicting Big Labor. With a deadline rapidly approaching for the city's short term notes and the prospect of an economy crippling default looming in the background, the shortsighted mentality of such as Victor Gotbaum, John I. Delury and other labor chieftains is a puzzlement. As Governor Hugh Carey phased it in his inaugural address, "the days of wine and roses are over", and the sooner this is realized the sooner this state, including the metropolitan area, can begin the long road to economic recovery. Because of their stubbornness and lack of flexibility, these heads of New York's municipal unions may very well bring about another wave of massive layoffs. With leadership like this, one can only pity the poor city employee.

"Many people view him with skepticism and wariness, so we named him 'Detente'!"

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—During a mock battle in the late 1950s the Army sent a couple of dozen assault troops under the influence of LSD into the fray and filmed the chaotic results.

It was a comic opera, with troops dressed in battle gear behaving like an army of Gomer Pyles.

The 15-minute film showed how the troops reacted under battle-simulated conditions. Reported Dr. John Buckman, a psychiatry professor at the University of Virginia medical school: "The soldiers showed lack of motivation, lack of ability to attend to detail."

In one sequence, the drugged soldiers were supposed to climb a cement wall. "They were totally disinterested in the task. Quite clumsy," recalled Dr. Buckman.

One soldier in the film lost a button to the fly of his pants. He stopped in the middle of the mock battle and scoured the ground for the button. "That soldier couldn't continue the war until he found his button," said the psychiatrist.

Another test had the soldiers firing a mortar. "Their aim was grossly inaccurate," he said. "They giggled at inappropriate times."

The soldiers in the film also were ordered to march in formation, alternating their feet at each count. "They walked," according to Buckman, "like Gomer Pyle."

Drawing a weird comparison, he concluded: "The results were similar to when a spider was fed LSD. His web was much more chaotic than normal."

Footnote: The Army's LSD experiments were an outgrowth of the Korean War, an attempt to learn more about the brainwashing used on POWs in Korea. The accounts of the POWs were remarkably similar to the experiences of troops under LSD, according to doctors who conducted the experiments.

Governments on both sides of the Iron Curtain became interested in chemical means of altering human behavior. Several eminent psychiatrists have said LSD could be used as an effective weapon of war. The drug could be compressed in aerosol containers and dropped from planes. Some psychiatrists suggested it would produce insanity on a large scale.

If the drug could be slipped into the food or drink of top military planners, it could lead to chaotic decisions. But the most of the psychiatrists whom we interviewed were appalled at the thought of using LSD as a weapon. For them, it is a clinical tool for treating alcoholism, heroin addiction and other problems. Its military use "would be like turning a scalpel into a sword," said one.

POOR MORALE: Almost half of the employees, who were secretly polled at the Environmental Protection Agency, believe their agency is "not doing a good job."

The survey is part of a classified study, which also charges that the EPA violated civil service rules in hiring and promoting employees.

The suppressed Civil Service Commission report was prepared last July for official eyes only. "Agencies may not release evaluation reports... to the public," the document warns.

Nevertheless, we can reveal what the officials had hoped to hush up.

The most shocking finding was that an astonishing 46 percent of those surveyed thought EPA wasn't doing its job properly. Here are some of their written comments:

—"Almost all final decisions appear to be politically motivated and it is most difficult to get out a final decision that will protect the environment."

—"Scientific facts are replaced by emotional or political considerations."

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON—The newest intrusion by Congress into foreign policy, its reluctance to permit President Ford to deliver on his commitment to sell 14 batteries of Hawk anti-aircraft missiles to Jordan, threatens the long U.S.-Jordanian alliance and the U.S. position throughout the Arab world.

King Hussein has privately let Washington know that any reneging on what he has been promised is unacceptable. He may then turn instead to Soviet arms, either directly from the Russians or through the King's former blood enemy, Syria.

Apart from giving the world another spectacle of two contradictory foreign policies carried on in Washington by President and Congress, this possible course of events is steeped in irony. Instead of keeping Jordan out of another Mideast war as an ally of Syria, as Congress claims it is doing, the humiliation of Hussein may have precisely the opposite effect and alienate Washington's staunchest Arab friend.

King Hussein requested defensive missiles almost two years ago, when Jordan was odd-man-out in the Arab world. Wholly dependent on the U.S. and pilloried in Arab capitals as a U.S. stooge, the King had nowhere to turn except Washington for defense against Israel's U.S.-equipped air force, the region's preeminent military force.

But Hussein's position in the —"Professionals are not consulted about decisions made by political appointees."

—"High level positions are often rigged in special ways for buddies."

—"The merit promotion system is a farce. Promotions are given because you are the friend of someone rather than for the job you do."

The low morale at EPA has resulted in a high turnover rate. Nearly one-third of the positions at headquarters must be replaced each year. This internal discontent and discord, says the report, has impaired the ability of EPA to carry out its mission of protecting the environment.

The Civil Service investigators also found "numerous instances of preferential treatment both in the hiring and promotion of agency employees."

Furthermore, the report charges, EPA "is not making efficient and economical use of its manpower." The agency's staffing system, for example, is hopelessly snarled.

Concludes the report sadly: "No one has an accurate picture or control over how the headquarters is organized."

Footnote: Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., is investigating the abuses.

Footnote: An EPA spokesman denied that morale was low because of alleged favoritism. "I don't know of any jobs hired that way," the spokesman said. "We may have low morale, not because of political hiring, but commitment to the environment."

"Hi-!"

Inside Report

Humiliating Jordan's King Hussein

Arab world has undergone dramatic change. Through skillful diplomacy, he now has enough prestige in the Arab world, plus credits from oil-rich Saudi Arabia, to buy missiles outright—from Moscow or anywhere.

There is deep irony in the argument circulated to congressional offices in a July 15 memo from the American Israel Public Affairs Committee—the highly effective pro-Israel lobby here. That argument: the Hawk missiles will be used against Israel in alliance with Syria. To buttress that claim the memo points to an unsubstantiated New York Times dispatch of April 25 that Jordan and Syria are planning "a joint military and air command."

Denied instantly by King Hussein and more importantly by the State and Defense Departments, the reported "joint command" is taken deadly seriously in Congress to justify disapproval of Mr. Ford's agreement with Hussein.

The irony: if Jordan is forced to turn to Damascus or Moscow for Soviet SAM-type missiles, far closer military collaboration between U.S.-aligned Jordan and Soviet-aligned Syria becomes starkly probable.

That prospect stems from Jordan's predictable reaction to a congressional turnaround. With half its country under occupation by Israel (which is armed to the teeth offensively and defensively with American weapons) and with a record as America's closest Arab friend, Jordan would see itself victimized by an inexplicable double standard. Hussein might then, for the first time, turn to Soviet arms.

The American Israel Public Affairs Committee memo dismisses that as nonsense. "The possibility that Jordan would buy similar equipment from the Soviet Union is remote, given Jordan's complete reliance on Western arms, training systems and technology."

In other words, says the Israel lobby, the U.S. can keep Jordan on a short leash and Jordan will have no choice but to accept.

That dubious premise gets majority acceptance in both the House and Senate. At last week's Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing, not one Senator spoke in favor of selling 14 batteries.

Only the surprising intervention of a devoted friend of Israel, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, prevented the committee from limiting the $350 million sale to merely three batteries. He proposed six—still less than half the number that Pentagon technicians say is essential for an effective defensive system covering Amman, the army divisional commands and Jordanian air bases.

A slim chance remains that King Hussein might accept half a loaf and hope that the other half will come at some future time. Even so, the lesson of Congress's double standard has already damaged the U.S. at a critical point in its Arab-Israeli peace mediation.

It has deepened the chaos of two U.S. foreign policies confronting the world; one in the White House (the basis for formal negotiations); the other in Congress (the basis for overturning signed agreements).

This has corrupted U.S.-Turkish relations, undermined U.S. credibility in East Asia and is now eroding 25 years of friendship between the United States and the kingdom of Jordan. The humiliation of Hussein on Capitol Hill is of intense interest in every other Arab country.

Emasculating the American Male

When sex is cheap, integrity disintegrates. Character crumbles. Honor is onerous. Women's liberation becomes male emasculation. Men debate the value of whatever is free.

Male gluttony, in whatever form, has always led to nausea. His sexual appetite, throughout history, has always been tamed and moderated by women who set a high price on virtue.

The husband who cheats has always been punished. Now, in a violent convulsion of sexual values, women have reversed the roles in the name of liberation. They are the aggressors.

The sexual chase is instinctive with men. They feel virile if they must hunt, seek persuade and marry. The more difficult she is to attain, the safer he feels when he gets her.

This year, 39 percent of all marriages will be broken by court action. This assails the foundation of life—the human family. It does not take into account additional marriages which, "for the sake of the children," remain comatose, feigning death.

The Pill is abused. This boon to the small family has become the hydrogen bomb of the single girl. Magazines detail the wonders of having an "affair." Single girls who are disinclined to surrender to a man on the first three dates are not asked for a fourth.

The boy who does not demand sex is a square. At movies, girls laugh at depraved acts and cheer the bad guys. The "knight on a white horse" is jeered as grandma's pet fantasy.

Women's Lib, in its sexual aspect, has become a free pass for the rapist. In Great Britain, the courts now maintain that no matter how hard a woman struggles, or how loud her shrieks for help, the man is entitled to believe she means yes.

Licentiousness always breeds contempt. Last month, Marji Kunz of the Knight Newspapers wrote a story for the women's pages which detailed the wonders of infidelity. Miss Kunz told about a tennis pro whom she identifies only as "Buzz."

"At the moment," Miss Kunz wrote, "he is sexually involved with six married women. And that's not counting his wife or the woman he was tutoring later on the day we talked. 'She's a sharp chick, but I'm in no hurry,' he said. 'I already have a lot of action going.'"

One of the headlines stated: "Husband Is Last to Know." A psychiatrist, Jean Rosenbaum, is quoted as saying: "The most frequent complaint he hears from women is that the American man, in many ways is a frigid person. Since the birth of the control pill and the women's movement, he is finding a lot of cases where males are unaffectionate and unresponsive."

One man came to Dr. Rosenbaum for treatment, he says, because his wife achieved orgasm. "It frightened him. What we have here is not the historic case of a man who is looking for sex outside marriage. He can't handle what he has at home."

I find it difficult to believe Dr. Rosenbaum, whoever he may be. Any husband who suddenly discovers that his wife is an active partner in love is going to take her to dinner and buy a corsage.

The drive to emasculate the male is engineered by lib militants, lesbians and psychologists who counsel confused females who would not require treatment unless they felt they had wronged themselves as well as a man.

I do not favor the supine woman of old. My grandmothers were raised in ignorance and died naive. That's wrong. Knowledge is a righteous weapon. The question simmers down to the difference between use and abuse.

In the post-flapper era, we had a lot of sex going for us. It was, I assure you, not a virginal decade. Boys lied a lot about how easy certain girls were. It was Mastodon Age Machismo.

We were sexual hypocrites. There were girls you had fun with. And there were girls you married. The good girls were underneath no more moral than their freebie sisters, but the good ones stood high on a pedestal and wouldn't come down.

Today the college boy who doesn't "shack up" with a girl is suspected of latent homosexuality. The budding female becomes cheaper and cheaper. At some vague time in the future, women may become the perfect aggressors, chasing men to feel their muscles and find a stud.

Then the men will become asexual. The culture of the human family, with its parallels of mutual respect and mutual joy, will die . . .

Women in Prison . . . Numbers Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The increase in the number of women serving time in state and federal prisons is higher in recent years than the rate for men. A report earlier this week by the Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration offered no reason for the apparent upsurge in female crime, but it could be inferred that if women aren't committing more crimes than before, they must be getting caught more often.

The number of women inmates in 1972 and 1973 rose from 6,272 to 6,684, a 5.6 percent increase. For males there was a 3.1 percent increase from 189,911 to 197,665.

In federal prisons, the female population rose 21.4 percent.

"Given that relatively small base that characterizes the female prisoner count, only limited and tentative significance can be imputed to these data," the LEAA said.

"Nevertheless, they tend to reinforce other information indicating gradually increasing participation in crimes punishable by prison sentences.

The LEAA had the Census Bureau conduct the survey, instructing it to count only prisoners with maximum sentences of at least a year and a day. Both adults and youthful offenders were counted.

A second survey showed the number of inmates on death row dropped sharply in those years from 359 at the end of 1972 to 162 at the end of 1973.

The LEAA had a ready answer for the fewer prisoners living in death rows, the U.S. Supreme Court's 1972 decision that the death penalty, as imposed up to that time, amounted to "cruel and unusual punishment."

1973 was the sixth year in a row in which there were no executions. At the end of that year there were no federal prisoners under death sentence.

The report listed the 10 states with highest number of inmates per 100,000 population at the end of 1973. They are: North Carolina 183, Georgia 173, Maryland 149, Texas 146, Nevada 135, Florida 134, South Carolina 130, Oklahoma 120, and Louisiana and Virginia, 108 each. North Dakota was lowest with 28 inmates per 100,000 population.

'The Mosquitos Are Awful'

MIAMI (UPI) — At the entrance to Cape Florida State Park, a mile or so as the pelican flies from the mansion on Biscayne Bay where Richard Nixon used to spend his weekends, there's a sign these days that reads:

"Mosquitoes Awful—No Refunds."

That means you can't get your admission price back from the state just because you provided a meal for the hordes of black and white marsh mosquitoes which have moved in from the Florida Everglades this summer.

Across Biscayne Bay on the south side of Miami, things are even worse.

Dade County mosquito control supervisor James Heidt says that between U.S. Highway 1 and Biscayne Bay, from Flagler Street in downtown Miami to the edge of the Florida Keys, there are many "hot areas."

If you stick a bare arm out your car window in a "hot area," you can expect to have it bitten by a mosquito every three seconds.

Heidt put his fogging trucks on a 24-hour work shift Monday, and that was just to get the worst areas. He won't get around to the second worst areas until later.

And Heidt sees no relief in sight. "It will be more of the same," he said.

About the only thing that would rid Miami of its worst mosquito infestation in many years, he said, would be a 100-mile-an-hour wind from the north, which would carry them out into the Gulf Stream and Florida Bay.

The experts say it has its brighter side. The tiny marsh mosquitoes, which can squeeze through some window screens, carry no diseases which afflict humans, although they might give a dog heart worms.

As for what to do after you have slapped your way through a hovering cloud, University of Miami dermatologist Dr. Harvey Blank suggests soaking the afflicted member in water "as hot as you can stand it" and then putting an ice cube on the bite.

Home remedies such as garlic, lemon juice, pennyroyal oil or tincture of myrrh may be just as effective as commercial remedies, most of which, Blank says, "don't penetrate deep enough into the skin to have a long term effect."

To avoid being bitten, the experts suggest, don't wear perfume or dark clothing.

LIFE TODAY

Louise Breitung exhibits planters made from Clorox bottles. Technique for making them will be outlined at one of the proposed luncheon-workshop sessions which open September 24.

By Dorothy A. Narel

KINGSTON

What do working women do with their lunch hours? This is a question that has been researched by the Ulster County Cooperative Extension Service and home economists there have discovered that while many women fill that hour's break with window shopping or spending money, many more find it a drag.

The home economists have come up with a possible creative solution — Luncheon-Workshop sessions.

LIFE talked to Home Economist Louise K. Breitung about the new programming which will get under way at 12 o'clock on September 24 at 74 John Street.

"We want to give the working girl in our immediate area something to do. Instead of just killing time, they can come here to the Extension Service building and while they are eating lunch, we will be talking to them about various projects."

Even though the program is focused on working women, any homemaker is welcome to participate, Mrs. Breitung told LIFE. The only requirement for attendance at these luncheon-workshop session is — bring your own box lunch. Tea and coffee will be available at a cost of five cents per cup.

It is Mrs. Breitung's contention that anyone can start a hobby that's going to run into money. She feels it takes ingenuity to create things that are inexpensive and just as attractive. With this in mind, those attending the first session on September 24 will learn how to grow plants that cost only pennies. Would you believe growing an attractive plant from carrot tops?

"There won't be too much time to embark on complicated projects," Mrs. Breitung says. "These will have to be fashioned along capsule-type programming such as taking a clorox bottle and turning it into an attractive holder. The plastic bottle does not decompose but we can recycle them into hanging planters for use outdoors or indoors," the home economist said.

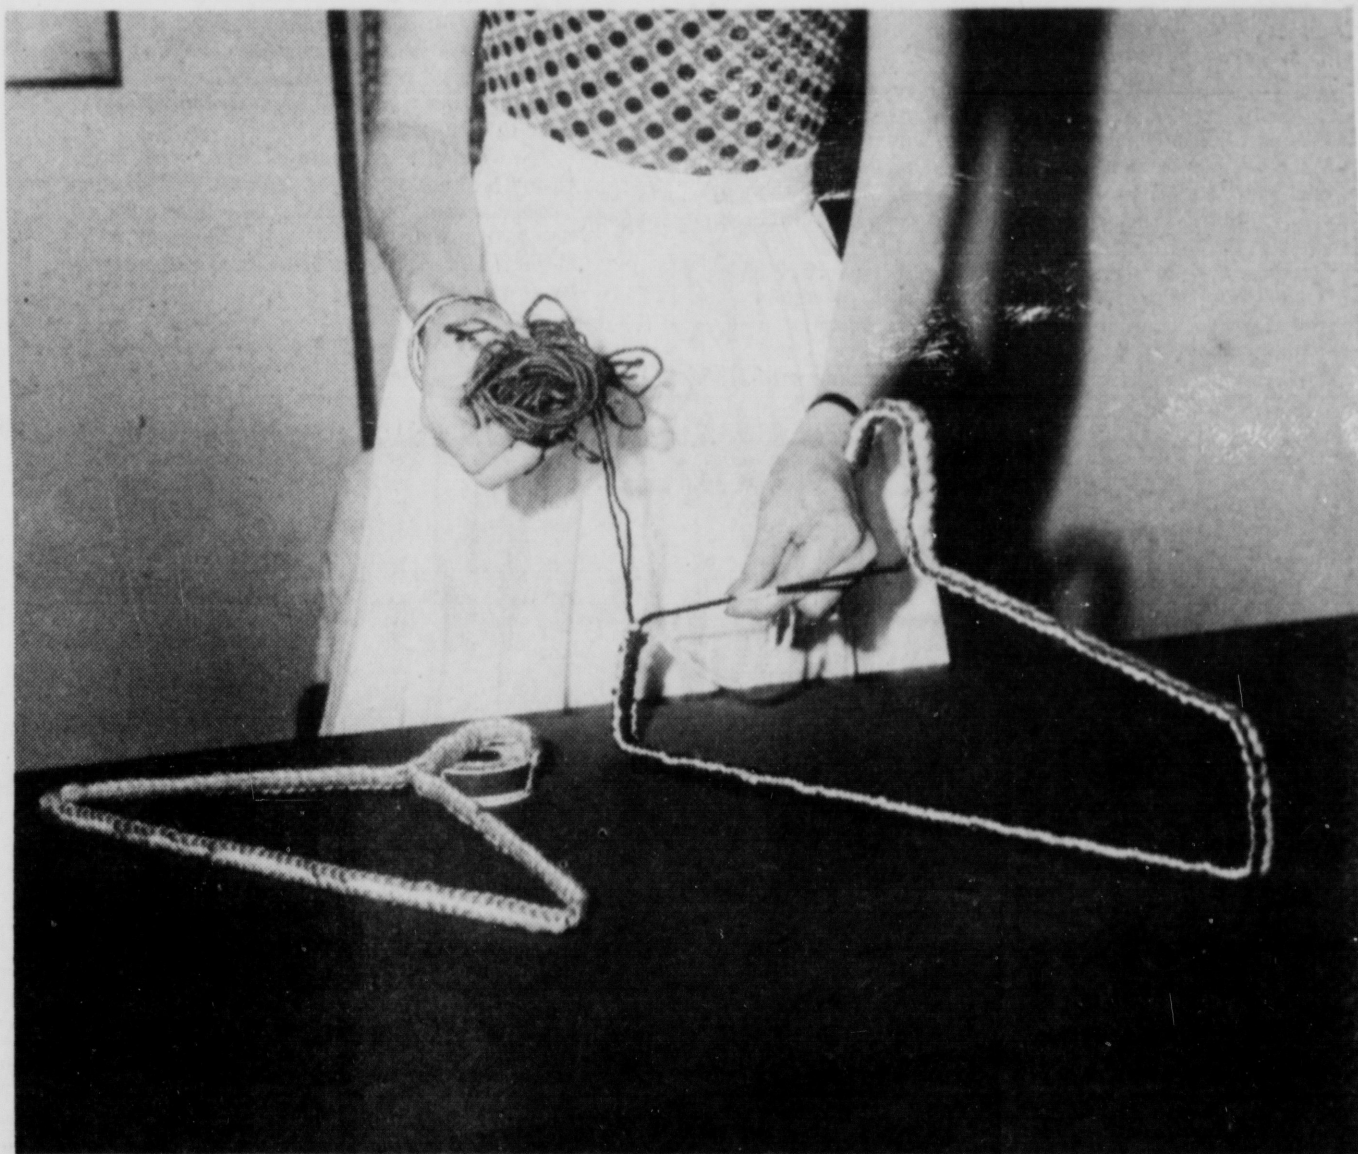

Another project will be making decorative coat hangers. Mrs. Breitung has a five-year-old working on the project now which simply puts two hangers together with a macrame stitch covering. "If you can't do anything — try this," says the home economist agent.

During the month of November extension service projects for the luncheon-workshop will include fruit cake recipes. The home economists feel women can reap tremendous savings with these cakes when used as gifts.

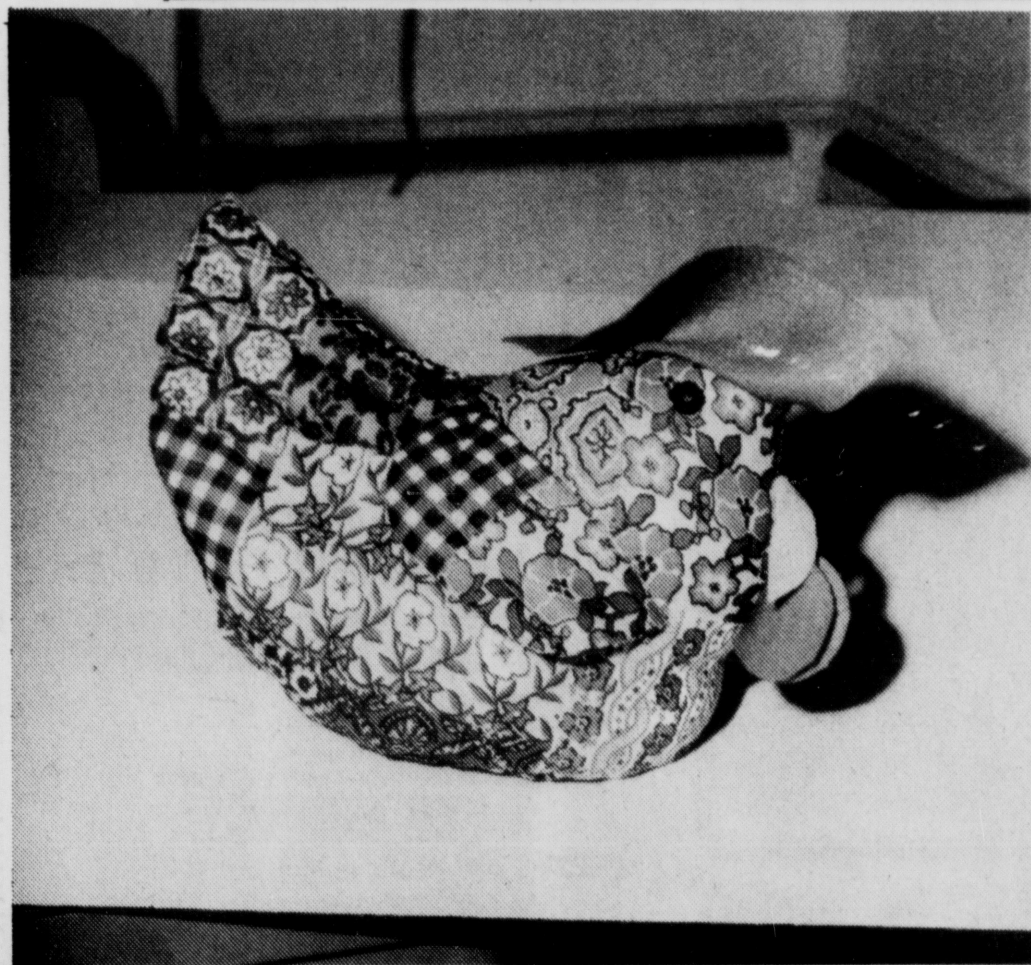

The Ulster County Extension Service, which is part of a nation-wide educational organization established by an Act of Congress in 1914 to help "the people — to improve their farms, homes and communities," plans to take the luncheon-workshop message into area businesses. "We hope to draw sufficient interest for the new programming in this manner," Mrs. Breitung said.

Ulster County Cooperative Extension is an equal opportunity organization. All programs and activities are available to all persons without regard to sex, age, race, color, ethnic background or economic circumstances.

Luncheon Workshop For Working Women, Homemakers

Attractive wire coat hangers can be covered with a simple Macrame stitch for gift-giving.

Quilted chicken which can be used as a centerpiece and would cost approximately $15 in the stores, can be made for under $2. Luncheon-workshop participants will learn how to make this colorful project.

Better Cities With Fewer Cars — Worldwide Search for Solution

PARIS (UPI) — Despite the world's love affair with the automobile, cities are more livable with fewer cars if city governments supply public transportation to move workers and goods, a new survey says.

The Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development, the intergovernmental group that guides Western economies, announced this policy in a July report covering a recent conference in Paris on "Better Towns With Less Traffic."

Delegates from 23 countries issued reports on what 300 cities are doing about the automobile — once the big romance in many peoples' lives but now a villain because of soaring oil prices, air pollution and traffic jams.

The report showed the 300 cities used to rely on parking lots and pedestrian zones to decrease inner city traffic. Now they have added city buses to try to woo citizens from their cars.

Officials from seven of the 300 cities told how they are coping with traffic:

— Nagoya, Japan: 38 miles of bus lanes, "no entry" signs, one-way streets and short pedestrian streets protect residential streets from through traffic. A 176-mile network of bicycle paths was built. Traffic deaths dropped 43 percent, noise dropped 3 decibels.

— Uppsala, Sweden: bus-only streets out of bounds to cars in the city center.

— Nottingham, England: long traffic signals purposely congest auto traffic in order to limit the flow and number of cars entering the city center. New buses link car parks and railway stations with the main shopping and commercial districts.

— Bologna, Italy: new buses are free during rush hours.

— Singapore: motorists have to buy a special license in order to enter the city center. Parking lot charges have been boosted to raise the cost of commuting by automobile and to encourage commuters to take buses. Express buses haul commuters to the city center from parking lots on the outskirts. Cars carrying four or more persons are exempt from extra charges. Singapore officials said they realized the penalties fall on poor as well as wealthy motorists but "we have concluded that only high cost will restrain motorists from using their cars." They said no exceptions have been granted, not even to doctors, diplomats or government officials.

— Besancon, France: New buses on bus-only streets take commuters to the city center from car parks on the edge of the city. Shared taxis replace buses during evenings and weekends. Extensive pedestrian areas have been built. A highway now rings the city center to divert traffic away from it. Bus travel jumped 31 per cent after the new system began.

Traffic and city officials attending the OECD conference noted that even medium-sized towns such as Nottingham and Besancon are trying to limit the number of automobiles. Many of the 300 reports showed that the cities rapidly put their traffic changes into effect without delays of years and years. And the changes are relatively cheap. Besancon's program went into effect within 19 months at a cost of $7.6 million.

Speakers said the anti-car programs do not hurt the motor industry because the decrease in production of private cars is made up for by the new demand for buses.

Even motorists like the new arrangements. Uppsala officials told the conference they took a public opinion poll and found that their new system of priorities for pedestrians, cyclists and buses brought approval from 54 per cent of car drivers.

Public Utility Plan

ELLENVILLE

Peter Ford and Lou Fagon, members of the New Paltz chapter of Concerned Consumers of the Mid-Hudson Area, were the featured speakers at the recent CCMHA meeting in Ellenville, discussing the advantages of public ownership of utilities.

The speakers cited figures showing an average saving of 30 percent to customers of the 3,000 publicly owned utilities in the country. They said that by law the Power Authority of the State of New York (PASNY) is required to provide 50 percent of the power it generates to municipally owned plants in the state. At present there are 47 such municipally owned plants which receive only nine percent from PASNY with the rest going to private utilities such as Central Hudson, they said.

A discussion and question period followed their presentation.

The organization will maintain a booth at the Ulster County Fair in New Paltz; Aug. 7-10, will participate in a hearing in Albany Sept. 8 before the Public Service Commission on the rate structure of utilities; will continue activity on withholding fuel adjustment charges and public education on the legal action against Central Hudson's imposition of this charge; will take part in a continuation at Ulster County Community College, and take part in several other areas of activity.

The next meeting is slated for 7:30 p.m. at the Ellenville School on Tuesday, Aug. 19.

Business Today . . . Fewer Farms in Operation; More Farm Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI)—A current paradox of the American economy: the greater the decline in the number of farms, the greater the number of good jobs created in agribusiness.

The Department of Labor estimated not long ago that from 40,000 to 50,000 skilled new farm and ranch managers will be needed each year during the 1980s. That will be true even though the number of individual farms in the United States diminishes yearly.

The average size of an American farm increased by 25 percent to 385 acres in the 15 years between 1959 and 1974 as the number of individual farms dropped to 1.82 million from 4.1 million.

But if the number of separate farms continued to diminish the growing dependence of so much of the world on American food has caused a steady expansion of the nation's acreage devoted to agriculture in recent years. The great era of taking land out of cultivation to control the size of harvests and farm prices that began during the Hoover administration has ended and probably never will be repeated.

John E. Mitchell, executive vice-president for the American Massey-Ferguson, global manufacturer of farm tractors, says the coming need for well educated and highly skilled farm and ranch managers will be only the tip of the iceberg.

"Most of modern agriculture in the Americas is highly mechanized and capital intensive rather than labor intensive," Mitchell explained. There are exceptions to this observation, of course. Harvesting labor is needed for vegetable, fruit and other truck crops, work that tends to be seasonal and under-compensated despite the high prices produce fetches in the supermarket. But the basic crops that used to be so labor-intensive, cotton and grains, for example, no longer are.

Nevertheless, Mitchell said, the mechanization of agriculture creates a great need for highly skilled professional workers for the farms and ranches and, off the farm, for experts on whom the farm owners and managers already are tending to depend more and more.

"In the Americas, at least, the centuries old concept of agriculture as a simple business carried on by poorly informed rustics, whether gentry or the sharecropper-hired man class, is practically ended and will not come back," Mitchell said.

Take the 40,000 to 50,000 new farm managers the Labor Department says we soon will be needing each year, Mitchell added. Every one of those will have to be backed up on the farm not by old fashioned, simple, perhaps ignorant, hands but by workers who either are trained technicians or at least skilled mechanics.

"More importantly," he said, "every one of these farm managers will have to be backed up by five skilled executives and professional people at various levels in agribusiness, men and women trained in our agricultural schools of our universities to help produce, improve and market crops and livestock."

These specialists will include agronomists, veterinary doctors, agricultural chemists, engineers, transportation experts and marketing and financial experts who have specialized in agribusiness.

Labor Department To Aid Confused

ALBANY Those of the state's 350,000 employers who have found themselves baffled, befuddled and confused by the job safety and health standards of the Federal Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) are in for some help from the New York State Department of Labor.

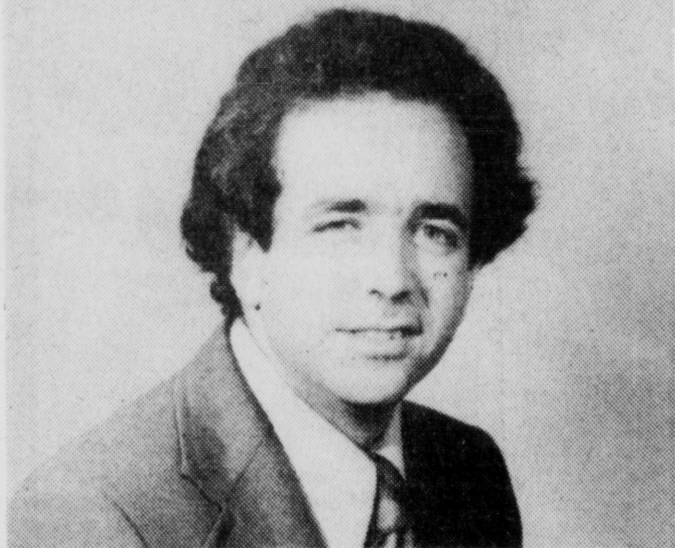

State Industrial Commissioner Louis L. Levine announced today that the state labor department will provide expert advice and assistance to employers whose work places must comply with the far-reaching OSHA standards.

"Many of these employers are confused by their responsibilities under the federal program," Levine said. "They are concerned that OSHA will be costly for them, either in fines levied for violations of safety standards or for changes and adjustments in operations and equipment necessary to come into compliance. Also, they are often puzzled by the task of studying and understanding OSHA regulations."

To aid the businessmen, the state has entered into an agreement with the federal government under which state occupational safety and health experts will serve as special consultants, with no charge to participating employers.

Levine said the program should be especially useful to the small employer who could not ordinarily afford to hire the services of private consultants.

Under the program, priority will be given to employers with small businesses and to those with particularly hazardous operations. Employers wishing to participate will have to contact one of the state labor department offices located in Albany, Binghamton, Buffalo, Hempstead, New York City, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica and White Plains.

Wood Doesn't Have Much Time

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Willie Wood, the former NFL great, became the first black professional head football coach in 50 years Tuesday but he didn't have much time to celebrate.

Wood, the new head coach of the World Football League's Philadelphia Bell, had to start preparing his team today for the season opener here Saturday night against Hawaii.

"It's going to be tough getting ready for the opener," Wood told a Tuesday afternoon news conference. "I feel like I ought to be out working right now."

"I hope that somewhere down the road we will have a winning team and we can play up the fact that the Philadelphia Bell has a winning team and play down me as a black coach," Wood said.

"But the mere fact that I am black and I am here today makes that impossible."

Asked if he expected any problems, Wood said: "Whenever you have a change of administration there are problems. I do anticipate problems, but of what kind a degree I don't know. I don't anticipate any problems from former football players from 1923 to '50."

"I think it is important to realize a change in sports in Philadelphia," Calvin Hill, a black assistant coach with the Hawaiians, said of Wood's appointment. "In the last three Hill added, however, that he hopes Wood delays his winning streak for a week.

Wood was signed as a free agent by Green Bay in 1960 and went on to play 12 years on the NFL club and was Coach Vince Lombardi interested him in a coaching career. "We had a long talk in the mid-1960's," Wood said.

After Wood retired, he, along with Ron Waller, served as an assistant coach for the NFL San Diego Chargers in 1972.

He joined Waller's staff at the Bell this season. When Waller resigned following what was rumored to be personal differences with Bell owner John Bosacco and several of the new Bell players, assistant coach Joe Gardi was named interim coordinator and led the team to a 30-21 victory over the Portland Thunder in an exhibition game last Sunday night.

Bosacco described the selection of a permanent coach as "agonizing." He said Gardi would remain in an administrative position "directly responsible to me."

the team.

"As I said before, we have the finest bunch of players I know. I don't anticipate any problems with them."

The last black man to coach a pro football team was Fritz Pollard, who coached the Hammond Pros of the Na-

Namath, Jets Agree to Terms

NEW YORK (UPI) — To the surprise of almost no one, Joe Namath has elected to continue being the highest paid player in professional football, agreeing to a two-year, $850,000 contract with the New York Jets.

The contract represents a $125,000-a-year raise for the playboy quarterback, who also recently signed a 20-year multi-million dollar deal with a cosmetics company.

The Jets announced a 12:30 p.m. EDT news conference today at their Hofstra University training camp during which details of the signing will be disclosed. Namath is scheduled to begin working out with the team right after the meeting.

"Details still have to be worked out, but we have a basic agreement," a Jets spokesman revealed. Jet President Phil Iselin and Namath's attorney, Jimmy Walsh, reached the "basic agreement" over the phone late Monday night. They hope to have the "details" worked out before the Wednesday meeting with the media.

"I'm glad it's all over with," said Iselin. "Now we can get down to business."

By "business" Iselin meant football, but it was Namath's frequent hints that he might retire to various business interests outside football that were the big issue in their negotiations and forced the New York owner to up his price this season even though Namath managed to guide the Jets to only a 7-7 record last season.

However, Namath, 32, played his first entirely injury-free season in years and led the Jets to victories in their last six games. The Jets are gambling a lot of money that his chronic knee problems are over.

Paul "Bear" Bryant, Namath's coach at the University of Alabama and still a close friend, supported their thinking.

"I've never seen Joe look in better physical shape," he said.

Namath, who played out his option with the Jets last season in the final year of a three-year contract, became a free agent May 1. He turned down a $4 million offer from the Chicago Winds of the World Football League a few weeks ago, saying that "I'll play with New York or retire."

Colborn Was the Answer To His Type of 'Prayers'

By UPI

Jim Colborn turned out to be the answer to his own "prayers."

Colborn, the 28-year-old righthander of the Milwaukee Brewers, blanked the American League East Division leading Boston Red Sox, 4-0, at Fenway Park Tuesday night and credited his victory to a form of prayer which might more commonly be referred to as "bearing down."

"I figure the only way to get beaten is to beat yourself," said Colborn, who allowed seven hits in notching his seventh win in 15 decisions. "So, when I get into a jam and have to concentrate, I just work on getting the extraneous and negative thoughts out of my mind and concentrate on the batter. That's my definition of praying."

Colborn prayed hardest in the fourth inning when he walked both Carlton Fisk and Dwight Evans with one out and Milwaukee ahead 3-0.

"I was tired," he said. "But I decided that if Boston was going to beat me, they'd have to hit me, not win on walks."

Colborn got behind three-and-one on Rico Petrocelli, but came back to strike out the Red Sox' veteran. He then retired Rick Burleson on a fly to center to end the inning.

Boston threatened again in the fifth, getting two on with two out, but Colborn bore down and struck out rookie sensation Jim Rice to end the threat.

"I bet a lot of teams are afraid of the Red Sox and psyche themselves the wrong way," Colborn said. "They're scared of Fred Lynn and Jim Rice. All I wanted to do was see what they could and couldn't hit. I think I found out."

Colborn received batting support from Don Money, who hit a pair of homers, and Darrell Porter, who added a solo blast.

The loss was the Red Sox' first at home in 11 games and it reduced their lead over Baltimore to eight games in the division standings.

In other AL action, Baltimore topped Cleveland 7-1. New York defeated Detroit 4-2, Kansas City downed Minnesota 5-2, Chicago beat California 7-4 and Texas whipped Oakland 6-1.

Orioles 7, Indians 1

Lee May and Bobby Grich each drove in three runs to lead the Orioles to a victory over the Indians. Mike Torrez allowed only six hits in going the distance for Baltimore to notch his 12th triumph against six losses. May's three rbi raised his total to 74, only one behind AL leader Fred Lynn of Boston.

Yankees 4, Tigers 2

The New York Yankees found winning comes a bit easier when they score some runs.

Following 27 scoreless innings and three defeats, the Yankees scored a run in the first inning and three more in the fifth Tuesday to beat the Detroit Tigers, 4-2.

The scoring drought finally came to an end when Thurman Munson, whose wife had given birth to a son earlier in the day, grounded out with the bases-loaded, bringing home Bobby Bonds. It also brought a standing ovation from the fans at Shea Stadium.

In the fifth inning the Yankees took care of Detroit starter Joe Coleman and his five-game winning streak.

With Bonds on second following a single and sacrifice bunt, Munson singled him home and scored himself on Graig Nettles' double. Lou Piniella then singled home Nettles for a 4-0 lead.

The Tigers scored their two runs in the sixth inning when Ben Oglivie doubled off starter and winner Doc Medich, 8-12, and Willie Horton followed with his 18th home run of the season.

Tippy Martinez saved the game for the Yankees, coming on with two out and two on in the ninth inning to strike out pinch-hitter Leon Roberts.

The third-place Yankees now trail Boston by 10 games and Baltimore by two in the American League's Eastern Division.

Royals 5, Twins 2

George Brett drove in three runs with a homer and a sacrifice fly to spark the Royals' triumph over the Twins. Paul Splittorff, starting his first game in 30 days, allowed only five hits in 6-1-3 innings to gain his third win in nine decisions.

Unser Had His Own Rooting Section

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Del Unser saved one of his biggest games of the season for a night when he had his largest personal cheering section on hand.

Unser had four hits, drove in three runs and scored two to lead the New York Mets to an 11-6 win over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday night after the Cards had won the first game, 5-3.

The cheering for Unser was led by a delegation of about 20 relatives and friends from his home town of Decatur, Ill. The group was organized for the trip by Unser's father, Al, a catcher in the 1940s with Detroit and Cincinnati and a minor league manager in the Cardinals farm system for about eight years.

"His being in the stadium with all the relatives made it especially nice," said Unser. "My father always had a real desire for the game. He never made me play baseball, but I knew deep down he wanted me to play. He never pushed me and I thank him for that. I've seen too many pushy parents."

"The only thing he ever told me was to enjoy the game and hustle," Unser said. "If I asked him something he gave me an opinion but he didn't push his ideas."

Unser now has nine RBIs in his last seven games. He singled for two runs in the third and singled again in the sixth for another run.

John Milner also drove in three runs. He doubled in the fifth to drive in Unser and winning pitcher Tom Hall, whose record is now 4-2. Hall was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the sixth and relieved by Rick Baldwin, who gave up a solo homer to Reggie Smith in the sixth plus two more runs in the seventh.

In the first game, the Cards managed to hit Tom Seaver for three run-scoring singles in the fifth and hand him his seventh loss against 14 wins. Willie Davis, Ted Simmons and Ron Fairly got the RBI hits off Seaver. Unser had a solo homer in the first game to narrow the Cards' margin.

St. Louis starter Lynn McGlothen, who had not won a game since July 1, boosted his record to 11-8. Fairly hit a solo homer for St. Louis and Simmons, who had a single, double and triple, has now hit safely in 30 of his last 36 games and has a .417 average for that period.

Tom Underwood, a 21-year old rookie left-hander from Kokomo, Ind., is stirring up memories among long-suffering Philadelphia fans of the famous "Whiz Kids" of the 1950 season.

That was the last season in which the Phillies won a pennant and they accomplished it with young players like Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Grady Hamner leading the way.

This Philadelphia team is more mature than the 1950 club but Underwood's "a green pea" even by Whiz Kid standards. Yet he is turning out to be the Phillies' most dependable pitcher and a key factor in their hopes to win the National League Eastern Division title.

Underwood, once called "the best young left-handed pitching prospect I've ever seen" by former Phillies star Jim Bunning, pitched a four-hitter Tuesday night when the Phillies beat the division-leading Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-1, and moved to within 3½ games of first place.

"I was very nervous during the afternoon," said Underwood after the game. "I didn't know what to do with myself. I made several trips to the lobby of the hotel. But I was okay when I started to warm up. John Oates did an unbelievable job catching the game and I thought it was one of my best games ever."

"Being named rookie of the year would be great but I'd shrug all that off if we could win the pennant," he added. "I think we can win the division."

The Phillies, who have beaten the Pirates nine straight games this season, broke it open with four runs in the fourth, highlighted by a two-run double by Underwood. Dick Allen led off with a walk and Jay Johnstone and Gary Maddox singled before Underwood doubled and scored on another single by Larry Bowa. It was the 11th win for Underwood, who leads the club in victories.

The San Francisco Giants defeated the Cincinnati Reds 4-2, the Atlanta Braves beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2, the Houston Astros downed the San Diego Padres 6-2, and the Chicago Cubs edged the Montreal Expos, 4-3, in other NL games.

Giants 4 Reds 2

Bobby Murcer's two-out, two-run double off reliever Will McEaney in the ninth lifted the Giants to their victory over the Reds, who nevertheless retained their 13½ game lead in the NL West. Fred Norman was knocked out in the eighth, marking the 45th consecutive game in which Cincinnati's starter failed to go the distance. Jim Barr pitched a 10-hitter for the Giants.

Braves 4 Dodgers 2

Ralph Garr singled in one run and Darrell Evans homered for the Braves, who dealt 13-game winner Andy Messersmith his ninth setback. John Odom went 8-2-3 innings for the Braves and won his first game. Ron Cey doubled in the Dodgers' two runs in the ninth.

Astros 6 Padres 3

Greg Gross and Ken Boswell had three hits each as the Astros broke a five-game losing streak with a 14-hit attack. Dave Roberts allowed 14 hits, including Willie McCovey's 14th homer, to win his sixth game.

Cubs 4 Expos 3

John Summers' bases-filled single in the eighth inning drove in the tie-breaking run and the Cubs added another on an infield out. Rick Monday and Tim Hosley homered and Oscar Zamora picked up his 10th save for the Cubs.

Trabert Replaces Ralston But Connors Still Won't Play

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the United States next plays Davis Cup it will be under the direction of Tony Trabert, the man mainly responsible for breaking Australia's domination of the competition in the middle 1950s, but the team still will have to get along without Jimmy Connors.

It has been an open secret that Trabert would succeed Dennis Ralston as Cup captain and his appointment was to be made official today by Stan Malless, president of the United States Tennis Association.

Connors refused to play for Ralston. He said he would never play Davis Cup while Ralston was captain, although he was eager to play for his country. Now he has rejected Trabert.

Last May Trabert told United Press International that he'd be happy to captain the Davis Cup team and, as far as he knew, his relationship with Connors was cordial.

Connors sees it the other way.

"Jimmy has told the (Cup) committee that he will not play for Trabert," said Connors' manager, Bill Riordan. "There is hard feeling between Jimmy and Trabert. I'm not sure what it is, but he won't be a hypocrite. He does not like Trabert and will not play for him."

Connors, however, insists he still wants to represent his country.

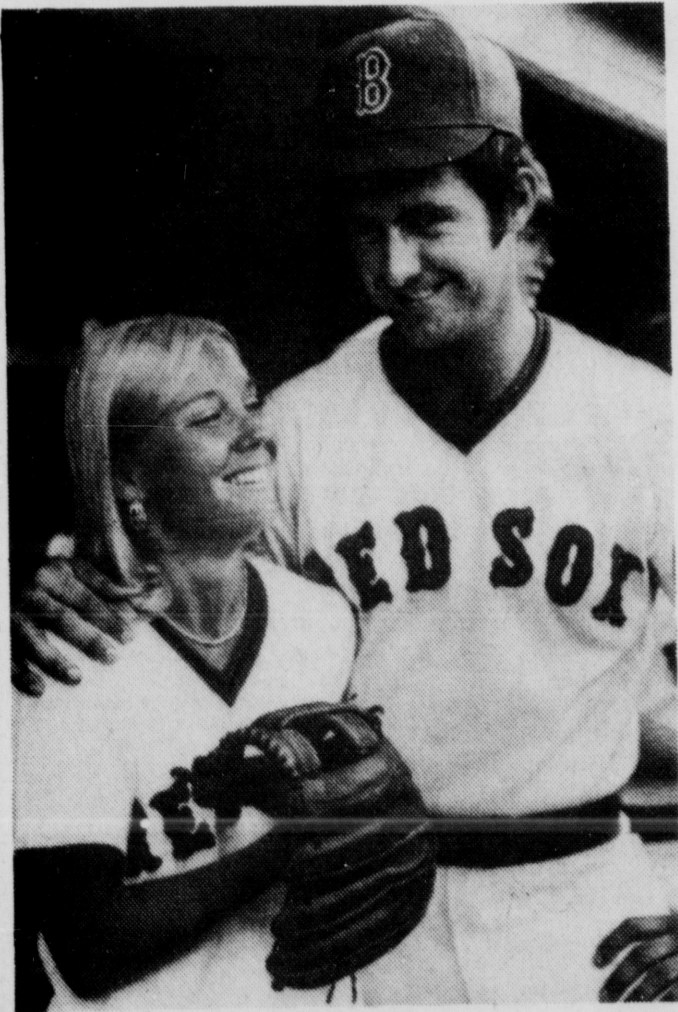

Both Connors and Trabert refused comment Tuesday night on the pending developments.

The U.S. last held the Davis Cup in 1972. The following year Australia scored a 5-0 sweep in the final at Cleveland, then followed upset defeats of the U.S. in preliminary rounds by Colombia and Mexico.

Ralston's days were now numbered, despite the fact he had the support of America's other leading players, including Arthur Ashe, who relieved Connors of his Wimbledon championship earlier this month.

In the period between 1953 and 1955, Trabert won two U.S. and French titles and was Wimbledon champion in 1955. With Vic Seixas he helped defeat Australia, 3-2, in the Challenge round at Sydney, beating Lew Hoad in the opening singles and then teaming with Seixas in the winning doubles. He had a 12-4 Cup singles record in his four years on the team.

Trabert turned pro after winning his second Forest Hills crown in 1955 and entered the tennis camp business at Ojai, Calif. In recent years he has also become a TV commentator.

HV Booters In 3-3 Tie

A team of all-stars from the fledgling Hudson Valley Soccer League made a fine showing here Sunday when it tied the established Central New York League's second squad, 3-3. "I thought we did very well," said Hudson Valley goalie Joel Tomson of the Kingston team. "Everyone was hustling and we played a fine team game."

Hudson Valley opened the scoring at the 25 minute mark when Sandy Jack of Rhinebeck converted a pass from Johnny Robinson of Kingston.

Ten minutes later it was 2-0 as Peter Huber of Rhinebeck sent a cross to Peekskill's Dave Oliver who headed it in the cage. "The defense was stunning in the first half," remarked Tomson, who singled out the efforts of Rhinebeck's Jim Roome.

Central New York broke the ice early in the second half, but Hudson Valley made it 3-1 when Hugo Palumbo of Peekskill scored an unassisted goal from 18 yards out at the 20 minute mark.

Central New York, however, rallied with a direct kick several minutes later and a deflection with just two minutes to go, tying the game at three-all.

Central New York outshot Hudson Valley, 19-16, and had eight corner kicks to the locals' three. Tomson made 13 saves while the CNY goalie had eight.

In the other game on the day's program, Central New York's first team edged the German-American Soccer Association's League Division stars, 4-3.

The Hudson Valley season resumes Sunday with Peekskill at Rhinebeck.

Bartkowski Expects To Beat Steelers

CHICAGO (UPI) — California's Steve Bartkowski expects to be sacked by the Pittsburgh Steelers Friday night, but he also expects his fellow College All Stars to win the annual game with the National Football League champions.

Bartkowski, who led the collegians last year in passing, or Temple's Steve Joachim, the national leader in total offense, will carry the offensive burden for the All Stars, seeking to win for the 10th time in 41 games with the pro titleholders, and neither will know which one will start until game time.

"I imagine the first round draft picks will be the starters," Bartkowski said, "but there's been no indication. I feel that I've had good practices, but Steve has had good practices too."

"I think we've got a good offensive line, and it's going to be a matter of how much time you have to hit the receivers. But remember these are a bunch of college guys and you're asking them to try to block the world champions. That's not an easy thing to do."

"A lot of all-pros have trouble blocking them. I'm sure our guys are going to give all their best, but there's going to be times when they get you. Nobody is fortunate to get through any game without being sacked at least once."

Bartkowski felt the All Stars would "have to run the ball in order to pass."

"It's not going to be easy to pick up secondary receivers because they do such a good job covering man to man underneath with their linebackers. Their front four is noted for their pass rush and not so much for their running defense, and in order to be successful, we're going to have to pass."

Davis' Big Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tommy Davis, veteran designated hitter of the Baltimore Orioles, had quite a time last week: he got the 1000th RBI of his career, then his 2000th hit, hit his first American League grand slam and went 13-35 (.371) to raise his season average .310 to .276.

Rookie Jim Rice of Boston continued to lead the DH rankings with a .287 average through Monday's games, followed by Baltimore's Al Bundy at .281 and Davis at .276, the league office announced Tuesday.

Area Sports Briefs

NEW PALTZ The first annual Red Carpet Open Golf Tournament will be held Thursday at 9 a.m. at the Huguenot Manor Golf and Country Club.

Prizes will be awarded to low net winners in the men's, women's, and juniors classes. The Calloway system of handicapping will be used.

Phils Set Albany Tryouts

ALBANY The Philadelphia Phillies have scheduled a tryout session for boys between the ages of 15 and 22 on August 8 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Blecker Stadium in Albany.

Former Phils' outfielder Elmer Valo, now a scout for the club, advises participants to bring spikes, gloves, and uniforms. American Legion team members should bring a letter from either the coach or commander of the post. The letter must be presented for the boy to be eligible.

Valo also advises participants to bring lunch.

Callabar Outswims Rondout

KINGSTON Callabar Swim Club won 44 of 46 individual events to swamp Rondout, 348-71, in a Kingston Area Swim League meet. It was Callabar's second straight victory without a defeat.

Bill DeFino and Brad Jordan each took part in seven victories, winning five individual contests and participating in two triumphant relays.

Laurinda MacKinnon, Katie Vestergaard, and Kim Janssen also were winners of five events while Brian Wootan took four and Dave Janssen, Jean Larkin, and Missy DeFino nabbed three apiece. Tim Buback and Keith Wootan were double winners.

Reynolds Wins in Philadelphia

KINGSTON Gary Reynolds of Port Ewen captured first place in the Northeast Division's Outboard Performance Craft boat race held in Philadelphia, last weekend.

Driving his Molani tunnel craft powered by a Mercury 650X in the MOD 50 Class, Reynolds coupled two heats together for the best time and first place honors.

In the highly competitive JS tunnel class, John Sherlock of Kingston and Tom Turner of Kingston took second and fourth places respectively.

Named Jaspers' Captain

RIVERDALE Carlos Rodriguez, a senior from Highland, has been elected to captain the Manhattan College baseball team for 1976, according to Jasper coach Dave Curran.

Rodriguez, a former Daily Freeman All Star and a four year varsity receiver at Highland, took over the backstopping chores at Manhattan as a sophomore hitting .320 with five homers his rookie year.

Last year the muscular 5-10, 185-pounder improved his defensive skills while batting .278. A long ball hitter, Rodriguez usually hit in the third, fourth or fifth slot for the Jaspers.

Curran was extremely pleased with the election of his senior upstater. "Carlos has always been a hard worker and all around team man. His improvement of his defensive skills is an example to all his teammates. We at Manhattan have been fortunate to have fine leaders as our baseball captains," said Curran.

Rodriguez, in Manhattan's School of Teacher Preparation majoring in Physical Education, succeeded Joe Coppo as the Jasper captain.

City Volunteer Firemen Expect New Trucks in August

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON
Volunteer firemen in three of the city's volunteer firehouses will probably get their new trucks next month.

Paid men at Wiltwyck Station on Fair Street probably won't be moving into a new uptown firehouse until at least next year.

Both projects are long overdue although the delivery of three new trucks to the Wicks, Rapid and Cordts Hose Volunteer fire companies is imminent.

Acting Chief William Schreiber told the Freeman his last communication with the Seagrave Fire Company of Wisconsin was on Monday, the 28th, and that he was told that one of the trucks had passed fire underwriter's tests and was ready for delivery.

Seagrave was low bidder at $54,910 on the three 750-gallon per minute pumpers in 1973 and was awarded the contracts on Dec. 6, 1973. Under the terms of the contract, delivery was required in 120 working days or about the middle of July, 1974.

Schreiber said the new trucks met city specifications but failed to meet underwriter's requirements for reserve power. He said the manufacturer (Ford) took responsibility and redesigned the engines to meet power requirements.

A spokesman for the Seagrave Fire Company in Clintonville, Wis. (about 40 miles from Green Bay) said there was nothing wrong with specifications drawn up by the city. "They ordered the right engine at the time," said the spokesman. "But then Ford de-rated the horsepower on their engines." The solution has been to install a four-barrel carburetor which gives the engine sufficient power. "Nobody's sorrier about this situation than we are," said the spokesman. He said his firm would "probably lose money" on the trucks due to the delays.

The new trucks will replace three trucks with 500-gallon capacity with an average age of about 20 years. "We expect them any day," said Schreiber.

The situation with the fire station is a good deal less optimistic. The need for a new fire station uptown has been (officially) recognized for at least the last 10 years when the uptown urban renewal plan was put together.

The present fire station (built in 1857) is located on a narrow one-way street that makes egress for the modern fire trucks housed there extremely difficult.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig committed his administration to a new uptown fire station in 1973. Koenig had been instrumental in building the city's first new fire station in 60 years when the Rondout station was completed in 1972.

The Freeman has learned that Koenig had been in touch with either a foundation or an individual benefactor in Long Island—he refuses to divulge details—for the better part of 1974 with the idea that that person and/or foundation would supply funds for a new fire station uptown, much like the Andretta Family has supplied the city's share of the Dietz Stadium swimming pool.

At one point Koenig and his unnamed benefactor were considering a combination fire station/library off North Front Street at the present site of the Gulf Gas Station. Figures of from half a million to $800,000 were suggested but the whole thing fell through in April when the money supply dried up.

Koenig then contacted the Bureau of Fire Training and Advisory Services in Albany for a survey of the city's fire defenses. When asked for a status report on the uptown station in June, Koenig replied that he was waiting for Albany to survey the situation before committing the city to a site.

The prime site is (now) on Converse Street between "the ruin" (the Frog Alley House) and the Telephone Company Building.

A spokesman for the Bureau of Fire Training and Advisory Services told the Freeman on Tuesday that "we have no idea when we'll get to Kingston." The bureau was moved this spring from the Office of Local Government to the Department of State.

In other firemanic news, former Wicks Hose Captain R. Bruce McLean was reprimanded by Chief Schreiber for marching with his company in the Children's Day Parade last Wednesday.

Under the terms of his suspension, McLean is not allowed to participate in any firemanic activities. He did not participate with his company in the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's annual convention over the weekend. McLean is under suspension for the remainder of the year for making remarks against Koenig, former Chief Robert Maines and union leaders in the paid department.

He has appealed the ruling. His case was heard in Albany Supreme Court on June 27. A decision is pending.

Modernization Down on the Farm

By Carl Graham

HURLEY

The product is brought into the 180 by 60-foot packing shed, put onto a belt conveyor, crops into a bin, is trimmed and is put into a crate, which slides onto another moving belt to a closer who wires it shut, goes onto another moving belt to a cooling unit, from where it is loaded onto a truck and rushed to market.

The operational plan for a manufacturing plant? No, it's the process by which Gill's Corn Farms on Hurley Mountain Road harvests, processes and ships to market some 10 to 11 million ears of corn annually.

The whole process is so well organized and so thoroughly mechanized that it surprises a non-farming visitor whose ideas on farming apparently are far behind the times.

It wasn't always that way, though. When Jack Gill took over the farm from his father in 1957 the corn was hand picked. The entire harvesting operation took place in the fields along the Esopus Creek, with the corn hauled in wagons to central locations where it was boxed, iced and shipped to local area markets. Most of it went to New York City, the remainder to markets in the Hudson Valley.

Today, mechanical pickers harvest the corn from the 900 acres of rich silt nurtured by the creek's flood waters. The picker loads wagons hitched alongside which carry the corn to the packing shed for boxing and icing. When picking is done in fields near the packing shed, the whole process, from stalk to market truck, can take as few as 30 minutes.

As Gill's operations have expanded, so have his markets. He now sells corn as far north as Boston, as far south as Miami, and as far west as Michigan, mostly to supermarket chains.

Gill's crops are not contracted. "The price is strictly governed by supply and demand," he explains.

Selling became so time-consuming that he hired a salesman, Charles Max, who in turn has six other men working for him, traveling across the area where Gill's corn is marketed.

If a man with Gill's year-round work load can be said to have a busy season, it starts in mid-April. Corn is planted in installments over a ten-week period ending in early July. The end of planting brings no slack season, for the first planting matures just as planting ends and another cycle, harvesting this time, begins and runs into October.

The farm is a family enterprise. Gill's attractive wife, Charlotte, a Cornell home economics graduate, runs a produce stand in front of their home and keeps the books. Daughters Cynthia and Karen help with the house and produce stand and sons John and David help with the field work.

"I never really see him," Mrs. Gill says of her husband, "We just wave when we pass."

The family's comfortable frame house is tucked into the base of Hurley Mountain. In the tree-shaded backyard are a cabana and pool, where David swims with a friend while his father describes his background.

Born into a farm family on Long Island, Jack grew up during the Depression. The family moved to New Jersey and again to a farm in Rockland County. Just as his children do now, Jack helped with the family farm work.

"I can remember packing tomatoes at 10 o'clock at night," he reminisces. "I would have liked to have gone out for baseball, but I always had to go home to help."

In 1937 the family settled on the fertile flatlands along the Esopus Creek, raising corn, cabbage and tomatoes. The tomatoes were phased out two years later and corn became the only crop after a mule died from eating frozen cabbage.

Jack spent two years studying agriculture at North Carolina State before enlisting in the Marine Corps in 1942. He served with the Fifth Marine Division in the Iwo Jima landing and returned after the war to the farm, which he took over from his father in 1957.

What is his typical work day? "Up at seven, work until 6 p.m., grab a bite, and work until 8:30 or 9. Then, if I'm not too tired, my wife and I work on the books until 11 or 12. In the harvest season, I'm up by 5 or 6 to start picking early so the packers will have something to start on when they arrive at 7."

His highly mechanized picking and processing operation still isn't complete. His current project is a new refrigeration unit, 17 by 17 by 8 feet, to cool the corn before it is iced for the trip to the market. "The price of ice is going up all the time," he explains.

A preliminary involved stringing a mile of three-phase wire from Route 209 to his packing shed.

"When you ask how our farm got started, you wonder if it wasn't a combination of luck, hard work, and being in the right place at the right time," he says. "This I do believe — if a man wants something and isn't afraid to dig in and give his best effort, this country still affords him the opportunity to become a success. This, I think, holds true no matter what field a person chooses."

Slow Recovery In Auto Industry

DETROIT (UPI) — Spring quarter financial reports from two of the nation's major automakers indicate a slow recovery from the industry's most prolonged slump since the Depression — and higher prices for car buyers.

Top executives of General Motors and Chrysler, in issuing the reports Tuesday, said the bottom had been reached and the industry is in an upswing that could mean a return to work for more than 100,000 idled auto workers.

But they also indicated the percentage of earnings to sales was down, strengthening industry arguments for price increases that could average $300 a car on soon-to-be-introduced 1976 models.

A 6 per cent increase would boost the average car price $1,300 over the sticker price at the end of the 1973-model year.

GM reported second quarter earnings of $333 million — more than five times its profits of the first quarter and up nearly 9 per cent over the second quarter of last year. Chrysler reported its fourth straight quarterly loss — a second quarter record $58.7 million but still an improvement over the first quarter, which was, industry-wide, the worst in three decades.

Chrysler executives said there should be a "consistent improvement in the automobile market." GM executives predicted sales at a 9.5 million rate by the end of the year.

GM Chairman Thomas Murphy and President Elliott Estes said the second quarter of 1975 "saw a number of positive indications that the recession has bottomed out and that a general upturn in the U.S. economy can be expected."

GM, the only firm to operate in the black in every quarter since the slump began 22 months ago, said current earnings were just 3.6 percent of sales compared with 8.3 percent in 1973.

Chrysler's second quarter loss was not as deep as the record $94.1 million deficit in the first quarter. Chrysler has lost $234.2 million in the past year and is in the midst of cost-cutting moves that trimmed more than 30,000 jobs.

Ford Motor Co. and American Motors will report their financial results later this week and next week.

Isabel Peron Plans Brief Vacation

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — Beleaguered President Isabel Peron soon plans to take a brief vacation to recover from nervous strain, government sources said today.

The sources said Mrs. Peron would give a nationwide address "within the next 48 hours" before announcing plans to take a "short rest" in Argentina's interior.

They said Mrs. Peron, secluded in her suburban presidential residence for the past eight days, would also overhaul her cabinet for the third time in three weeks.

The disclosure of Mrs. Peron's plans came a few hours after Argentina's military commanders met with top cabinet ministers to discuss the political crisis in the country.

Military sources said the armed forces commanders agreed that an indefinite power vacuum in the country "could no longer continue." But the sources said the military chiefs still want to let civilians run the country.

Argentina, rocked by a 110 per cent inflation rate, labor unrest and political violence, has been virtually leaderless since doctors ordered Mrs. Peron to bed rest eight days ago.

Reports and rumors of Mrs. Peron's imminent resignation or request for a leave of absence have circulated in the Argentine capital for the last three weeks.

Senate leader Italo Luder, elected over Mrs. Peron's objections, would succeed her as chief executive if she decides to step down.

Accident

NEW LEBANON, N.Y. (UPI) — A 17-year-old western Massachusetts boy was listed in critical condition at the Albany Medical Center Hospital Tuesday night after being struck by debris after a race car accident at the Lebanon Valley Speedway in Columbia County.

State police said Herbert Lewis III, of Dalton, Mass., was rushed to the hospital after a funny car — a modified car with a large engine and a short wheel base — lost its rear axle at a high rate of speed.

Stocks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened mixed Wednesday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 2.97-point loser Tuesday, was off 0.08 to 824.78 shortly after the opening. Advances led declines, 214 to 104, among the 456 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to around 480,000 shares.

Analysts said investors feared a surge of inflation could impede the economic recovery, which Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said appears to be broad based.

Closing quotations yesterday by Loeb, Rhoades, and Co., members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, Kingston Plaza, Kingston, N.Y., Joseph Garvita, resident manager. Phone 331-1900.

Scandal in London

A marital mixup involving four of the most brilliant and best known names in British arts and politics covered the front pages of London newspapers Tuesday. Vivian Merchant (R), a leading stage and screen actress, was reported to have said she is planning to divorce her husband, playwright Harold Pinter. She said she was naming as the other woman Lady Antonia Fraser, one of the most beautiful women in British society and wife of Hugh Fraser, (not shown), a Conservative Party member of Parliament. ## Pesticides

Use Is

Suspended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency has decided to suspend two widely used pesticides because of potential cancer risks, a conservation group says.

The Environmental Defense Fund said the government agency was set to issue a notice of intent today to suspend the pesticides called heptachlor and chlordane. The legal announcement, to be made at an EPA news conference, would set in motion the machinery for a possible ban.

Manufacturers will be allowed to petition for a hearing.

A staff attorney for the fund said the pesticides could be off the market by the end of this year if the EPA followed through with its intention.

The EDF petitioned the agency last year for a ban on use of the two pesticides, saying they pose some of the same problems as DDT and Aldrin-Dieldrin, which recently were banned by the EPA.

All are of the same chlorinated hydrocarbon family of pesticides which persist in the environment, can be stored in the body fat of animals, including man.

The EDF said evidence of heptachlor's carcinogenicity were developed during the EPA's hearings into aldrin-dieldrin.

Heptachlor epoxide, a metabolite of heptachlor, was found in biologically significant amounts in much meat, poultry and milk in the United States and in most humans, the EDF said.

The two pesticides have been produced at the rate of 20 million pounds per year. Their use is primarily agricultural, especially for corn, cotton and soybeans. But they are also common backyard pesticide for use on lawns and ornamental shrubs.

Two can ride cheaper than one.

New Views On Revolution

LISBON (UPI) — Gen. Otelo Saraiva de Carvalho, Portugal's military security chief, returned today from Cuba and promised faster revolution and the threat of violence against — and concentration camps for — Portuguese who oppose it.

Carvalho said he planned an urgent meeting with Socialist leader Mario Soares to "advise him to be more moderate" in his opposition to this country's left-wing military rulers.

"At the moment, Soares is the hope of the right wing in Portugal, not only the right wing, but all reactionaries," he said.

Because of mushrooming opposition, Carvalho told a chanting crowd of leftists at the airport it might become necessary to turn Lisbon's main boulevard into a concentration camp for reactionaries.

"I am convinced that the way things are going we will really have to do this in a short time," he said. "It is becoming impossible to make a Socialist revolution by peaceful means."

Carvalho, who serves on the new ruling three-man junta with President Francisco da Costa Gomes and Premier Vasco Gonçalves, said he planned to apply what he saw in Cuba to accelerate Portugal's progress to a "Peoples Democracy."

"We are going to see now what we can use here of what we learned in Cuba," Carvalho told the crowd. "I have just come back from a Socialist country and I can tell you it is worth the sacrifice."

Anti-Communist violence with antimilitary overtones spread to three more towns and as a further complication the military imposed partial censorship on news coming from the embattled colony of Angola, which gains independence from Portugal in November.

It was the first instance of the military rulers officially limiting information since they took power 15 months ago.

The worst violence was at Sao Joao da Madeira, 15 miles north of Lisbon, where men inside a Communist headquarters in Sao Joao da Madeira opened fire with pistols and shotguns on a crowd threatening to overrun the military cordoned and break into the building. One of the demonstrators was wounded in the arm before soldiers cordoned off the area with armored cars.

In Lisbon, the Ministry of Health announced that nine cases of cholera have been detected in the Porto and Lisbon areas. The ministry urged public health officials and the public to take precautions against further outbreaks.

Gurney Jury Gets Reminder

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Ben Krentzman wants the word spread that the jury deliberating the fate of former Sen. Edward Gurney and his three codefendants doesn't have $56,000 in evidence any more.

The jury began its third day of deliberation today with the money — 560 $100 bills used as an exhibit in the federal bribery-conspiracy case — locked away in a vault.

The judge said stories calling attention to the cash had "created a problem." So he ordered the money locked in a vault and asked reporters to "now report that the money is not there."

Gurney, the first United States senator indicted while in office in half a century, was unusually relaxed and in good cheer Tuesday.

Gurney is charged with conspiring in an influence peddling scheme to get political contributions from builders in return for favored FHA treatment, bribery, receiving unlawful compensation and four counts of making false statements to a grand jury. He faces a maximum of 42 years in prison.

Codendants are his former aide Joseph Bastien, charged with conspiracy and receiving unlawful compensation, and suspended FHA officials Ralph Koontz and K. Wayne Swiger, each charged with conspiracy.

Clean Bill For Astros

HONOLULU (UPI) — America's last three Apollo astronauts had a clean bill of health today and were leaving history-making to others while

Weicker Worried

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the Watergate hearings began two summers ago, Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr., R-Conn., spoke of the men who "almost stole America." Today, he's worried that theft could yet occur.

As hearings began Tuesday on a massive bill to prevent future political abuses, Weicker said not one of 98 Watergate-related bills introduced to do just that has passed the Congress.

"How's that for a two-year congressional record of straightening out the greatest scandal in the history of United States politics and government?" he asked.

Special Prosecutor Henry Ruth Jr. and his predecessor, Leon Jaworski — two men who did their part to end that scandal by obtaining some five dozen Watergate convictions — were to testify today on how they think future Watergates can best be prevented.

The pending reform bill would set up a permanent Office of Public Attorney, like the current special prosecutor independent of the White House and the Justice Department, to investigate and prosecute abuses of power in the executive branch.

Besides blaming Congress for inaction, Weicker also blamed the press and the public — the press for failing to continue investigative reporting and the public for staying away from the polls in droves, thus "continuing to invite political mischief."

He also said he was "deeply disturbed" there has been no real justice for those involved in Watergate.

"Justice has been delivered two ways — one way to the powerful and the strong and another way to those who are weak and have no political advantage," Weicker, a member of the now-defunct Senate Watergate committee, said.

Sen. Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., vice chairman of the Watergate committee, cautioned against going too far in reforms.

"There is a danger that in trying to rectify the problems of Watergate we will diminish the authority of the presidency," Baker said. "We should not fundamentally change the relationship of the presidency, the Congress and the courts."

He said a permanent independent prosecutor might be unconstitutional and suggested instead a Division of Government Crimes within the Justice Department to deal with illegal acts whether found in the executive, the Congress or the courts.

"Deke" Slayton X-rays had shown "a resolution of all previous abnormalities caused by the irritant."

National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman Larry King said this meant they had fully recovered from the effects of rocket propellant gas which seeped into their spacecraft during reentry Thursday and deformed them to Tripler instead of home to Houston.

"However," said King, "the possibility of respiratory infection is still present and symptoms could show up later. This is why they are being kept in Hawaii for observation."

Sometime today the three astronauts were to leave Tripler by car and head for an as yet undisclosed Oahu beach resort — most likely military — where they will spend the next 10 days under medical observation and NASA interrogation about their historic space rendezvous with two Russian Soyuz cosmonauts.

Tuesday NASA said they would go with their families to Bellows Field on windward Oahu with its ironwood trees, soft sand beach and frame houses usually used by vacationing military families.

Then a decision was made to look elsewhere. King said logistical problems — too many people — forced a reconsideration of Bellows, where the first Japanese bombs fell on December 7, 1941.

The families of the three were arriving today, to be taken immediately to the beach resort for the reunion.

Pageant Continues

PALMYRA, N.Y. (UPI) — The Hill Cumorah Pageant, a sound and light dramatization about Joseph Smith and the beginning of the Church of Latter Day Saints, continued to draw what officials said were record-sized audiences here.

Warm temperatures and a spectacle billed as "the nation's most elaborate religious festival" attracted 18,000 viewers Tuesday night, when performances resumed after a weekend break. Performances will continue to night through Saturday.

The pageant has been well-attended since it opened Friday and pleased church officials predict a total of 125,000 persons may view the 1975 spectacle.

About 650 young Mormon men and women, all amateurs, participate in the pageant. They pay all their own expenses to stay in New York and put on the show.

Blackwood checks aces-kings

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

Blackwood is not really a method of bidding slams. It is a method of checking for aces after you have counted enough trick-taking potential to make a small or even a grand slam.

Thus, you should plan to bid six any time your partner's response shows that your side holds three aces.

If his response shows that you hold all four aces you may settle for six, invite seven or even bid seven.

The normal way to invite seven is to follow up your four notrump with five notrump. This follow-up asks for kings in the same manner four notrump has asked for aces. Six clubs shows zero or four kings, six diamonds one king, six hearts two kings and six spades three kings.

It is most important to bear in mind that when you ask for kings you are guaranteeing that your side holds all the aces.

This makes it possible for the partner of the Blackwooder to take charge when he has the right cards. It wasn't hard for North to count to 13 tricks after South's bids of four and five notrump. Then since the game was match points, North bid the grand slam in notrump. Ten points means nothing in rubber bridge—in duplicate it may mean the difference between a good score and a top.

REJECTED: (Q.) My boy friend and I were to be married this summer. We both had permission. He is 20 and I am 17. Well, he got me pregnant, and when I told him he said that he didn't want anything to do with a tramp.

Then I told my parents and they kicked me out of the house and won't give me a chance to explain. I have no place to go and no money. What should I do?—Not a Tramp in Tennessee (A.) You can go to a home for unwed mothers, have the baby and make it available for adoption. Ask any minister for the name and address of a home near you.

Do not let your parents' or your boy friend's unfair judgments of you persuade you that you are no good. You have made mistakes, but you can overcome them and have a good life. Start now.

YOUNGER: (Q.) I am 15 and like girls younger than myself. There is one in particular. She is four years younger, but is more mature than some girls of 15 that I know.

Do you think we have a problem? Neither of us is interested in sex—just companionship, someone to talk to, or someone to have fun with. We live 20 miles apart, and I don't see her as often as I'd like to.—Particular in Pennsylvania

(A.) It is good to have a friend to talk to, no matter what the age. We all need friends of different ages.

An 11-year-old girl, however, is not suitable as a regular girl friend for a 15-year-old boy. She is not ready for dates and other activities typical of 15-year-old girls and boys. Her interests are also usually quite different from theirs.

Congress Mulls Partial Lifting of Turkish Embargo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Responding to President Ford's concern, Senate and House leaders are making an 11th-hour effort to persuade Congress to reverse itself and partially lift the arms embargo against Turkey before the Aug. 1 congressional recess.

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., a top-ranking member of the House international relations committee, told reporters Tuesday, "we are working on something and may know whether we will have it later tonight or tomorrow morning. If we do, we'll have something on Thursday."

In the Senate, both Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Hugh Scott were reported to be working out plans for a speedy vote on partially lifting the ban.

As a result of the embargo, Turkey has taken control of U.S. military bases in that country.

Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich., said the plan was for the Senate to take up a compromise bill which would be added as an amendment to an international broadcasting bill which could be brought up in the Senate today.

"We are hoping to have a vote in the House by Thursday," he said.

Broomfield blamed the electronic counting machine in the House for rushing through last week's vote of 223-206 to keep the embargo. He said he believes enough congressmen have reflected on the seriousness of continuing the arms embargo so that there are now just enough votes in the House to get the embargo partially lifted.

U.S. Ambassador James Aikins said Saudi Arabia is deeply concerned about the cutoff of U.S. arms to Turkey and the possibility that Congress might next impose a six-months moratorium on arms sales to the Persian Gulf. "They say we have taken an action to the detriment of an ally. They wonder how reliable we can be in the future," Aikins told a House international relations subcommittee Tuesday.

Meanwhile Premier Suleyman Demirel flew to Helsinki today to attend the European Security Conference summit and discuss with President Ford his country's takeover of 24 U.S. bases in Turkey.

Turkish officers took command of the American bases Tuesday in retaliation for the U.S. Congress' refusal to partially lift a ban on arms sales to Ankara.

U.S. officials said 18 of the bases would continue to operate under Turkish command, but these are only communications and supply facilities.

The principal bases — four intelligence gathering installations, a naval navigational aid station and an airbase — stopped operations Sunday.

Suspension of operations "left a very anxious gap in American intelligence gathering operations," a U.S. official said.

He refused further comment, saying he would be giving away defense secrets to the Soviet Union.

The four intelligence bases eavesdrop on military movements in the Soviet Union and are part of an early warning system against Soviet nuclear attack.

Turkish officials said they did not expect any change in the situation to come out of the Ford-Demirel talks.

They conditioned any change on the lifting of the U.S. arms embargo, imposed by Congress Feb. 5 after the American-armed Turks invaded the Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

Congress has made lifting of the arms embargo conditional on Turkish concessions in Cyprus.

Army Tests With LSD Conducted on Volunteers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army said today it tested LSD on volunteers on at least one occasion to see if it would weaken the will of prisoners being questioned about military matters.

The test, conducted at Fort Bragg, N.C., in September, 1958, was designed to see how long the subjects could "hold out" under the influence of the drug.

The Army said 20 Special Forces volunteers — the elite "Green Berets" of Vietnam fame — participated in the experiment, set up as a simulated prisoner of war interrogation.

It involved intelligence personnel from the 525th Military Intelligence Group and the 82nd Counterintelligence Detachment under supervision of the Biomedical Research Facility at Edgewood Arsenal. Edgewood presided over the Army's drug testing program.

The 82nd Counterintelligence Detachment was attached to the 82nd Airborne Division, and the 525th Military Intelligence Group was sent to Vietnam in 1967.

Dr. Van M. Sim, who directed the LSD test program at Edgewood, denied at a news conference July 23 that any Army intelligence or security units had been involved in the LSD tests.

Asked about the Army's statement today, Sim said, "I didn't know who those fellows were. The Special Forces brought them in."

The tests included a "guard post" exercise and a "cover story" exercise, with both groups being given doses of 100-150 micrograms of LSD.

In the guard post exercise, eight soldiers on guard duty were given LSD, after which persons with phony identification tried to slip by them. "A lot of guys got through," said one source familiar with the program.

The "cover story" exercise was more complicated.

In such tests, common at military intelligence schools, the budding soldier-agent manufactures a plausible cover story to hide his true identity and mission. He then is "captured" by the "enemy" and taken to an interrogator, who tries to pick apart the cover story and find the truth.

According to a military intelligence source, the technique is used both on future interrogators and on prospective agents who might find themselves faced with such a situation.

In the Fort Bragg test, however, the 12 volunteers fabricated their cover story and then were given LSD. An Army spokesman said they were not told what drug they were receiving, but merely that they would "receive a chemical compound which might alter their behavior." They then were subjected to the interrogation.

Double Warning From Israel

By United Press International

Israel has threatened to oust U.N. peacekeeping forces from the Middle East cease-fire lines if the Jewish State is suspended from the United Nations.

Israel also warned that its ouster from the world organization would render any U.N.-sponsored peace agreement useless.

Foreign Minister Yigal Allon told Israel's national television he would recommend an end to "all United Nations Nations activities in Israel" if the world organization suspends the Jerusalem government.

In a later television interview, Defense Minister Shimon Peres said Israel's suspension would make it impossible for U.N. troops to police an interim peace accord with Egypt.

"It is impossible to maintain a U.N. force without being members of the United Nations," Peres said. "It is impossible to maintain a settlement with Israel outside the United Nations or with the United Nations outside the agreement."

Soviets' Threat Is Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union threatened to send troops into the 1973 Middle East war unless the United States stopped Israel from destroying an elite Egyptian unit, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt said today.

President Nixon accepted the Russians' terms because the Soviet navy outnumbered the U.S. 6th Fleet by a factor of 3-2 and could bring overwhelming air power to bear, said Zumwalt, chief of naval operations at the time. It was the first time anyone in a position of authority publicly discussed the matter.

Leonid Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, sent the note to Nixon Oct. 24, 1973.

"The letter was savage, even by normally harsh diplomatic standards," Zumwalt told UPI in a telephone interview. "It didn't even start 'Dear Mr. President,' it just said 'Mr. President.' It reminded me of notes we sent the Soviets during the Cuban missile crisis, when we felt the security of the United States was at stake."

On Oct. 6, Egyptian troops crossed the Suez Canal into the Israel-held Sinai. Israeli tanks eventually recrossed the canal and cut off the Egyptian 3rd Army. Israel apparently intended to hold the troops hostage as a bargaining counter. A cease-fire was declared Oct. 24.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat asked the United States, which was supplying Israeli forces, and the Soviet Union, which was helping the Arabs, to supervise the cease-fire.

Then the letter arrived. "The letter made it clear that unless the Israelis were forced to end their encirclement of the 3rd Army, the Soviets would go in and free them," Zumwalt said.

The next day, Oct. 25, Nixon ordered a worldwide alert of the 2.2 million U.S. troops. Zumwalt replied "absolutely" when asked if the alert was related to the Russian note.

Zumwalt said the Soviets "had much greater capability to bring into the area." They had 98 ships compared with roughly 65 for the United States and were able to use air fields in Egypt, Syria, Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union. U.S. planes could land only on 6th Fleet carriers.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said at the time the alert was "precautionary." He told reporters "we do not now consider ourselves in a confrontation with the Soviet Union."

"He said he would explain within a week or a week and a half," Zumwalt said. "He never said anything about it."

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said at the time that the Soviets sent a "brutal" note which said if the United States did not jointly police the cease-fire, the Russians would do it themselves. Kissinger dismissed the statement, saying Jackson "does not participate in our deliberations."

Zumwalt said, "That's the same note."

On Dec. 19, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Kissinger told the Israelis first that the Russians were threatening to drop water and food to the Egyptians. Then, he said, Kissinger was concerned the United Nations might do the same thing.

Finally, the secretary was quoted as saying, many Americans were sympathetic to the United States' resupplying the Egyptians.

Scott's Daughter Arrested

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., (UPI)

— The married daughter of Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott was among those arrested early today in a series of drug raids in suburban Philadelphia, police said.

Authorities said Scott's daughter, Mrs. Marian Concannon, 41, was among 12 persons arrested in the raids conducted in Bucks County by the state Bureau of Drug Control with the assistance of 60 law enforcement officers from 15 different departments.

Mrs. Concannon was charged with possession and sale of hashish.

A total of 27 warrants were issued in what Richard J. Schreck, regional director of the state bureau, said was a crackdown on dealers.

Those arrested were to be arraigned before District Justice Oliver A. Groman of Doylestown.

Ostracism Of Cuba Ends

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) — The Organization of American States has ended the 11-year-old economic and diplomatic isolation of Cuba in the Western Hemisphere.

The United States joined 15 other OAS nations Tuesday night in approving a de facto end to the 1964 sanctions against the Communist government of Premier Fidel Castro.

The OAS voted 16 to three with two abstentions in favor of a "freedom of action" resolution letting member nations determine their own relations with Cuba.

The Mexican-sponsored, U.S.-backed measure stopped short of lifting the sanctions, but circumvented the embargo and closed a painful chapter in Western Hemisphere history.

William Mailliard, the American ambassador to the OAS, said the resolution represented a "generally acceptable solution" to the Cuban problem.

Diplomatic observers said the move may turn out to be the first step toward the eventual normalization of relations between the United States and Cuba.

But the observers said the United States doesn't appear to be in a hurry to resume ties with the Castro government. Relations were broken in 1961.

Voting for the resolution were Argentina, Bolivia, Colombia, Costa Rica, Ecuador, El Salvador, the United States, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Panama, Peru, the Dominican Republic, Trinidad-Tobago and Venezuela.

Chile, Uruguay and Paraguay, nations with right-wing governments dominated by the armed forces, voted against the resolution. Brazil and Nicaragua abstained.

The measure, passed by two votes more than the two-thirds majority needed for approval, leaves OAS nations "free to normalize" their relations with Cuba.

It permits members to determine their relations with Cuba "in accordance with the national policy and interests of each" and "at the level and in the form that each state deems advisable."

The OAS imposed the sanctions at a July 26, 1964, meeting in Washington, accusing Cuba of "exporting" Communist guerrilla activity in the hemisphere. It vowed to "resort to armed force" if necessary to halt Cuban subversion.

The sanctions prohibited OAS members from maintaining diplomatic relations with Cuba, suspended trade in all but food and medicines needed for humanitarian reasons and halted sea transportation to the island.

The vote on the sanctions was 15-4 with Bolivia, Chile, Mexico and Uruguay opposed. Venezuela, the sponsor of the resolution, did not vote.

The "freedom of action" resolution was the result of a political compromise between countries demanding a formal end to the 1964 sanctions and nations preferring to let the embargo die out quietly.

Levi May Sue Arab Oil Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edward Levi says he is contemplating suing Arab oil producing nations in U.S. courts for possible violation of antitrust laws.

"If we had foreign concerns making price-fixing agreements which affect the American market we would say those are cartel agreements that violate the Sherman Act," Levi said Tuesday.

The Arab oil nations, members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, imposed an embargo on the United States and other countries in the winter of 1973.

OPEC steadily raised prices from a level of about $2.50 a barrel before the embargo to nearly $20 a barrel on some sales. Months after the embargo the price stabilized at $11 to $12, but today it ranges from $12 to $13.

Levi said questions that have yet to be decided are whether the Sherman Act's prohibition against cartels can be made to apply to foreign governments as well as companies.

Asked if he were merely raising a "rhetorical question," Levi said, "I don't just go around making rhetorical questions. I think it's something we have to look at."

"Yes, it's something I'm looking at."

"Do you have a task force working for you?" a reporter asked.

"Well, I'll tell you," Levi said, "I've hired one of the best antitrust lawyers in the country to work on it — namely me."
